

Fighter Pilots Told To Stop Making Practice Attacks

Air Force Wants to Learn Cause of Bomber Destruction

GRANTS, N.M. (AP)—The Air Force has ordered fighter pilots to stop making practice attacks on other air-planes until it finds out how a maverick missile knocked a B52 bomber out of the sky.

Three crewmen were killed Friday when the B52 crashed and exploded after an air-to-air Sidewinder missile broke loose from an F100 jet fighter and hit one of the bomber's eight jet engines.

A native of Wausau, Wis., was a survivor. He is Capt. Ray C. Obel, 28, copilot, the son of the late Irving Obel, widely known Wausau architect. In his jump to safety, Obel fractured a vertebra, but was listed in good condition. He lives with his wife at an air force base in Texas.

The fighter was making a run at the bomber when the accident occurred. In Washington Sunday the Air Force announced suspension of all practice intercepts.

5 Crewmen Escape
Five of the bomber's crew escaped. Three were picked up within hours after the accident. The other two were not found until Sunday.

Obel, and S-Sgt. Manuel C. Mieras, 23, crew chief from Flagstaff, Ariz., suffered through a blizzard that dropped temperatures to 10 degrees and produced winds of 65 miles per hour.

Nonetheless, a military hospital said their conditions were good.

10 Arrested as Songfest Turns Into Free-for-All

NEW YORK (AP)—Folk-singing fans and police turned Greenwich Village's Washington Square into an eight-acre wrestling ring Sunday in a shoving, bruising battle over a ban on impromptu songfests.

When the tumult and the shouting had died after about three hours, 10 demonstrators—including novelist Harold L. Humes—were under arrest and several nursed assorted scratches and bruises.

One policeman suffered a bitten hand. He said a dog did it.

Nine of the 10 arrested were released in bail on charges of holding a demonstration in the park without a permit. Five of them also were tagged with an additional charge of disorderly conduct.

The tenth defendant, Louis Pagliaroli, remained in a cell on charges of felonious assault on a policeman and of interfering with an arrest.

The demonstrators showed up at the park at 2 p.m., protesting a ruling by Parks Commissioner Newbold Morris against Sunday afternoon musicals there.

The get-togethers are a tradition that villagers have kept alive for almost two decades. But Morris says activities of the itinerant musicians make it impossible to turn the park into an attractive area.

Stories, Photos Tell of State Union Meeting

The city of Appleton was honored to play host last weekend to the state convention of the Wisconsin Council of County and Municipal employees at the Conway Hotel.

A complete word and picture story of convention events, including the address by Gov. Gaylord Nelson, appears on Page B-1 of this evening's Appleton Post-Crescent.

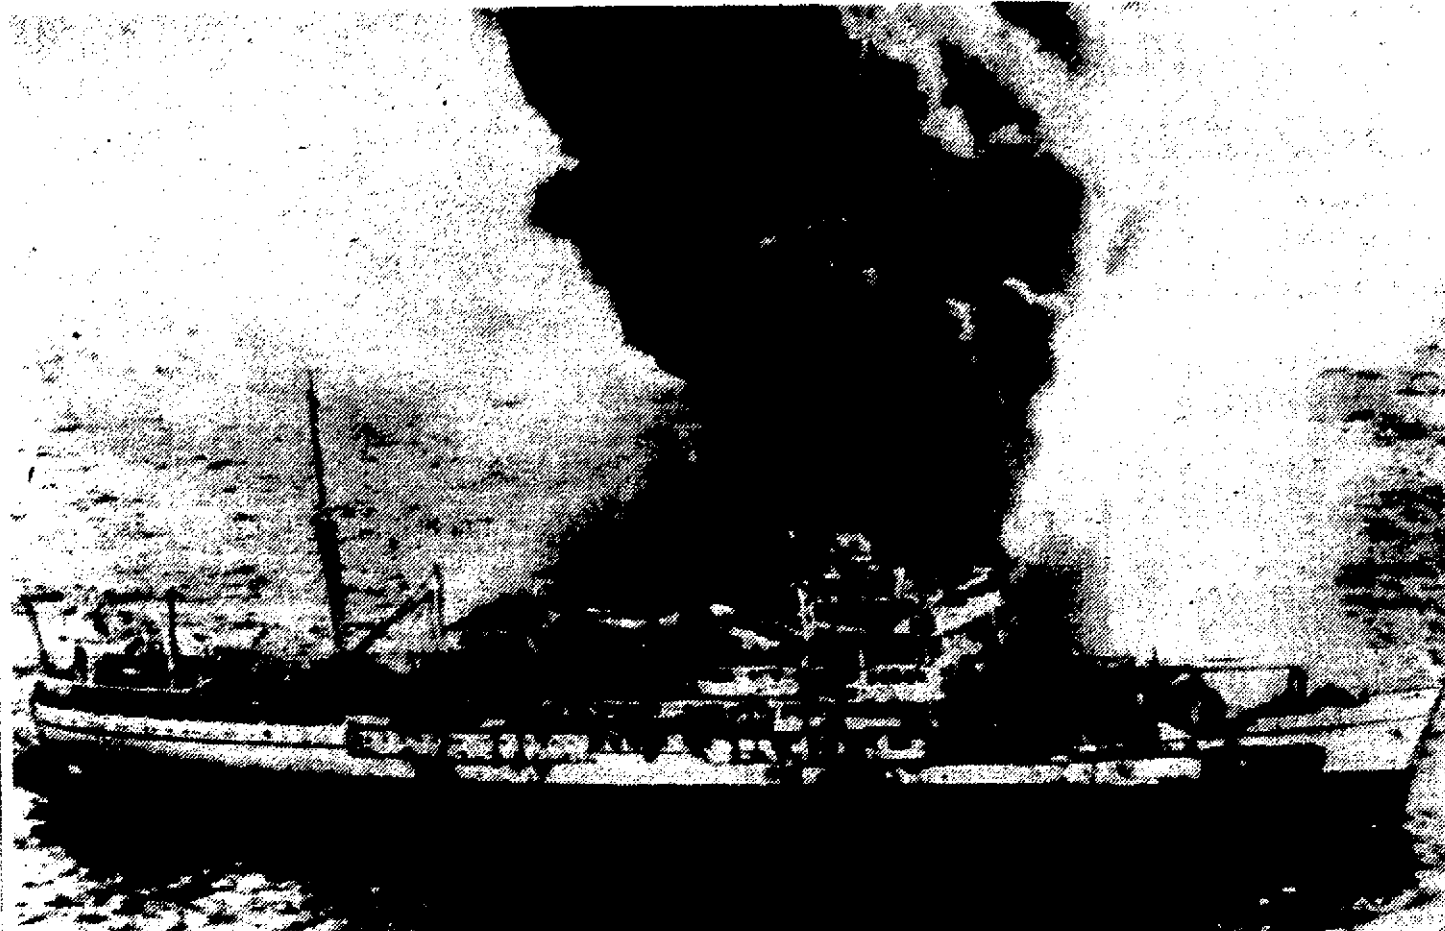

Also, the second of a series of four articles by Charles House will be found on Page A-4. This series deals with the experiences of the 39 Oshkosh volunteers in the Civil War who fought as part of the famous "Iron Brigade."

212 Feared Dead in Persian Gulf British Ship Disaster

Smoke Rises From the British liner Dara as the vessel burns in the Persian Gulf off the coast of Arabia. She was taken in tow and sailors fought the blaze after passengers were removed.

American Couple Among Missing; Most Victims Asians; Wreck Sinks

MANAMA, Bahrain (AP)—The burned-out and deserted wreck of the British liner Dara sank today as salvage ships were trying to beach her. The owners, meanwhile, issued a new casualty toll raising the number feared lost in the Persian Gulf disaster to 212. Two were Americans.

The figures issued here by Gray Mackenzie, agents for the British India Steamship Co., were reached by calculations of the number aboard the Dara when fire broke out early Saturday and the number rescued during the weekend.

This was the company's breakdown—580 passengers, 132 crew, estimated 60 visitors, total 772. Survivors 560. Missing and feared dead 212.

An official of Gray Mackenzie said the number of visitors was approximate because

South African Racial Policies Under Attack

U.N. Committee Votes Demand for Punitive Action

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The U.N. Special Political Committee today called for punitive action against South Africa for its racial policies. This included an African demand for an economic and diplomatic boycott.

The boycott proposal, won majority approval, but failed to get the required two-thirds margin needed for final ratification in the general assembly. This meant that the assembly probably would wind up by adopting only a milder Asian resolution which simply called on all countries to consider "separate and collection action" against the South African government.

Vote on Boycott
The vote on the boycott plan 47-29 with 18 abstaining. The United States was among those voting against the proposal.

Most of its support came from African, Asian and Soviet bloc countries.

While the African-sponsored resolution got more support than was generally expected, it was not conceded much chance of gaining enough votes to get it through the assembly.

The vote on the milder resolution was 93-1 with none abstaining. This assured its final approval by an overwhelming margin. Only Portugal voted against the proposal. The United States voted for it.

The Asian resolution deplores South Africa's disregard for repeated U.N. requests that it renege its racial policies, says that policies of racial discrimination are repugnant to human dignity and calls on South Africa to modify them.

It asks all countries "to consider taking such separate and collective action as is open to them, in conformity with the United Nations charter, to bring about the abandonment of these policies."

It said their continuance "endangers international peace."

Income Tax Hike, Personal Property Relief Indicated

Governor Says Bill Will Follow Last Week's Referendum Mandate

Radio Report Hints Russians Ready to Send Man Into Space

NEW YORK (AP)—Indications that the Russians are about to launch a man into space, or have done so, were reported today by the Columbia Broadcasting System radio network.

A CBS spokesman said a live short-wave broadcast from the CBS correspondent in Moscow, Marvin Kalb, indicated that an announcement of the man-in-space launching was expected this morning, but apparently was held up.

The information was gleaned from Kalb's frequently interrupted report, carried on CBS radio's world news roundup. CBS said there seemed to have been "considerable cutting" in the transmission, either accidental or on purpose.

MADISON — Gov. Nelson indicated today that he will ask the state legislature to enact a higher personal income tax schedule than he had originally asked in order to make effective the wish for personal property tax relief shown in a referendum vote last week.

The governor said he is drafting the necessary legislation and is considering a 25 per cent tax rate cut in three personal property classifications, with an average annual inventory method to replace the presently required May 1 assessment date.

A constitutional amendment ratified by the voters last Tuesday makes possible a lower rate of manufacturing stocks and inventories and farm livestock. A 25 per cent reduction in the rate would amount to about $15 million a year, which the state would be expected to restore to municipal treasuries.

Public Wants It
"There was a clear expression of public feeling that the personal property tax is not a good tax; and that something should be done to alleviate it," he told reporters at his weekly news conference.

He went on to express the hope that future legislatures and governors would work for the complete elimination in the three categories.

The governor also said he will go to Washington Thursday to ask Congress for special appropriations for health, education and

Zog, Ex-King Of Albania, Dies in France

PARIS (AP)—Death has ended 22 years of wandering in exile for King Zog I, Albania's first and last monarch whose victories in military and political battles earned him the nickname of "the Balkan Napoleon."

Broken in health, the 65-year-old former feudal mountain fighter died yesterday in a small suburban hospital half-way through writing the story of his life that he called "an adventure novel." His body lay today in the hospital chapel while funeral arrangements were being made.

Zog's 22-year-old son, Prince Leka, succeeded to the kingship his father never gave up even though his throne was wrested from him by the fascists and then abolished by the Communists.

15-Count Indictment

Eichmann Prepares to Face His Judges in Mass Executions Case

JERUSALEM (AP)—Adolf Eichmann today neared the fateful hour that will bring him face to face in court with Jewish survivors of the Nazi extermination camps — including some who alleges he was carrying out "the final solution."

Three of the witnesses, Yoel Brand, his wife, Hansi, and Philip Freudiger, met Eichmann in Hungary in 1944. This was when the Nazis devised the scheme to release a million Jews in exchange for 10,000 Allied army trucks.

Brand will testify that Eichmann said: "Blood for goods — goods for blood."

Another witness, Dr. Hugo Kratzky, was among a group of 1,000 Jews deported from Czechoslovakia to Poland. When the train arrived, Eichmann met it. He allegedly told the deportees that they would have to build their own concentration camp.

Some were weak from lack of food and water. Some had faint, according to survivors. When they asked Eichmann for water and supplies, they say he answered with one word: "Dig."

Abraham Krassik, another witness, was a member of a group of 20 Jewish prisoners rounded up to obliterate evidences of the work of Nazi murder teams known as Einsatzgruppen (operational squads).

Tried to Hide Graves
In the early stages of the "final solution", thousands of Jews were slain by firing squads. Late in 1944, when the Nazi's Eastern front was crumbling, hasty efforts were made to obliterate the mass graves of the Jews. Krassik and the other 69 Jews opened the graves, ground up the bones, and scattered the fragments over the fields.

The other 26 witnesses — those who did not meet Eichmann in various actions with which they person — presumably will testify

Damage Minor

California Town Hit By Heavy Earthquake

HOLLISTER, Calif. (AP)—mostly in broken glass and in merchandise which flowed out of broken jam, syrup and liquor bottles.

This little county seat town 90 miles south of San Francisco was still picking up today after the heaviest earthquake in its history.

"I've lived in Hollister all my life," said San Benito County Coroner Eugene Patterson, 57, "and this was the worst quake I've seen."

Rush by Motorists
In addition to extensive but relatively minor damage, Hollister had to contend Sunday with thousands of curious motorists who poured into this community of 6,071 people which frequently gets shaken up by tremors along the San Andreas Fault beneath it.

Two rumbling shocks struck shortly before midnight Saturday night and were felt over a 6,000 square mile area from San Rafael, 15 miles north of San Francisco, to Paso Robles, 250 miles south.

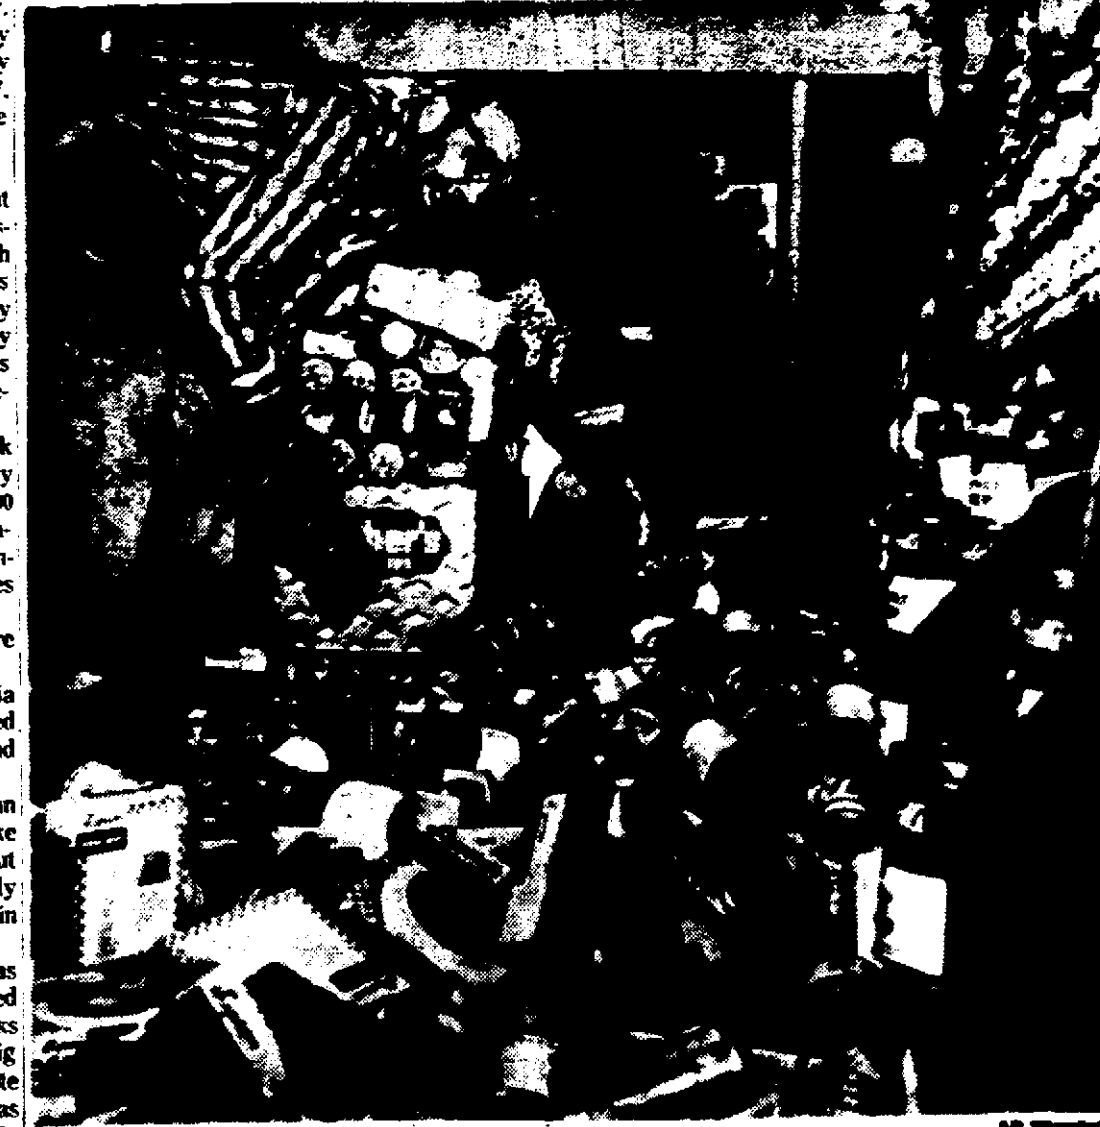

Only in Hollister was there much damage.

The University of California seismograph at Berkeley recorded two shocks, one at 11:23 p.m., and another 2 1/2 minutes later.

They broke water mains in San Francisco, shook sleepers awake in San Jose and Santa Cruz, but in Hollister they broke nearly every plate glass window on Main Street.

The north part of town was blacked out as power lines parted in cascades of sparks. Cracks streaked across four of the big gest buildings in town. State Highway 25 to Coalinga was blocked temporarily by an earth-slide.

No injuries were reported. Damage was estimated at hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Stanleyville Army Chief Won't Agree To Military Truce

STANLEYVILLE, the Congo (AP)—The army chief of the Stanleyville government, Gen. Victor Lundula, today snubbed a bid from Maj. Gen. Joseph Mobutu of the Leopoldville government for a military truce.

Lundula said he would hold out until the Stanleyville government headed by Antoine Gizenga and the Leopoldville government reach political agreement.

Mobutu flew from Leopoldville to neighboring Equator Province yesterday, hoping to open negotiations with Lundula on the border of Oriental Province, of which Stanleyville is the capital.

Talks Postponed
"There will be no military accord as long as a political agreement is not reached which will permit the establishment of one government," Indula declared through a press secretary.

Political talks between the rival regimes were scheduled to open today but struck a snag over a meeting place. The talks were postponed.

They were to be held on neutral ground between Oriental and Equator Provinces but Gizenga showed fears for his personal safety. He suggested either Stanleyville or the Ethiopian capital of Addis Ababa.

In Leopoldville, meanwhile, the Congolese army expressed formal regret for two attacks on American embassy personnel yesterday at a roadblock 20 miles out of the capital. They promised immediate disciplinary action against three Congolese soldiers who hit an embassy officer and tore the American flag off an embassy car.

One Man Dies in Ship Collision

NEW YORK (AP)—The cargo ship South African Pioneer sank a small fishing vessel in a collision in the Atlantic 40 miles southeast of Cape May, N.J., today, the Coast Guard said. One person was killed and another was reported missing.

The 9,603-ton Pioneer, out of Cape Town, South Africa, picked up two of the four persons aboard the fishing vessel, the Powhamp-ton, out of Hampton, Va.

The dead man and the missing crewman both were from the Powhamp-ton.

The collision occurred in fog and heavy seas.

The Coast Guard said the passenger ship S.S. Nieuw Amsterdam and a Coast Guard cutter were headed for the scene to hunt for the missing seaman. The Amsterdam was bound for New York from Nassau.

Kennedy Pledges Strength for NATO

President Also Promises That An Effective Nuclear Weapons Capability Will be Maintained

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy pledged today the United States will strengthen its conventional military forces in NATO and also maintain an effective nuclear weapons capability.

At the same time, in apparent response to stated fears that nuclear war might be set off unnecessarily by trigger-happy response to small-scale aggression, the President stressed U. S. determination to keep all its own forces under high command control at all times.

The aim, Kennedy said, is to make deterrent strength "do what we wish, neither more nor less."

Kennedy made his pledges in an address prepared for a meeting of the military committee of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Force a Pause

"NATO needs to be able to respond to any conventional attack with conventional resistance which will be effective at least long enough, in Gen. Norstad's phrase, to force a pause," Kennedy said.

He was referring to Gen. Lauris Norstad, supreme commander of North Atlantic Treaty forces in Europe.

"To this end," the President said, "we ourselves mean to maintain our own divisions and supporting units in Europe and to increase their conventional capabilities."

NATO, Kennedy added, "is at a turning point in its military planning."

He said that in addition to strengthened conventional forces, "We believe that NATO must continue to have an effective nuclear capability."

No Mention

Kennedy made no specific mention of differences within NATO over control and use of nuclear weapons. France, for example, long has wanted a bigger voice in this field.

In obvious allusion to this sort of problem, Kennedy said: "We hope to consult closely with our allies on the precise forms which this nuclear deterrent should take in future years."

Referring then to a speech Britain's Prime Minister Harold Macmillan made last week at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Kennedy said Macmillan had pointed out the urgency of this matter.

"The United States," Kennedy pledged, "means to do its full share in working toward a good solution of the problem, and we believe that the clarity and firmness of our own commitment to the full defense of Europe can be helpful in this direction."

Well Advanced

The President said the U. S. government is well advanced in a careful study of the military policy of NATO.

"In our studies," he said, "we have found a serious need for a sensitive and flexible control of all arms and especially over nuclear weapons. We propose to see to it, for our part, that our military forces operate at all times under continuous, responsible command and control from the highest authorities all the way downward—and we mean to see that this control is exercised before, during, and after any initiation of hostilities against our forces, and at any level of escalation."

"We believe in maintaining effective deterrent strength, but we believe also in making it do what we wish, neither more or less."

Report Pilots Leave Miami For Training

Anti-Castro Unit Believed Headed for Central America

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—More than 35 anti-Castro airplane pilots were reported headed for a secret training camp today to heed a call by the Cuban Revolutionary Council for a "second war of liberation."

The pilots, including some formerly associated with Cuban dictator Fulgencio Batista, reportedly left Miami Sunday for a secret training camp, probably in Central America.

Family members and friends said the men were stripped of their clothing and identification, given uniforms and told to say their goodbyes before being spirited out of the United States.

Previously Excluded

It was the first time so-called "Batistianos" were reported to have joined forces against Prime Minister Fidel Castro. Those with Batista ties previously had been excluded from major revolutionary organizations.

The call for a "second war of liberation" was sounded by Dr. Jose Miro Cardona, president of the anti-Castro Cuban Revolutionary Council in New York. He said his country is occupied by "a foreign army at the service of those who betrayed the revolution."

Miro Cardona refused to discuss any timetable for possible landings on Cuban soil or strength of the invasion forces. He said when these forces become active inside Cuba they will number six million, embracing "all of Cuba."

Ignore Call

Reports from Havana said government-controlled radio stations Cardona's call and newspapers ignore Miro.

In a nationwide TV talk Sunday, Castro repeated earlier warnings that insurgent bands and expeditionary forces invading Cuba would be liquidated. He did not refer directly to the latest call to arms against his regime.

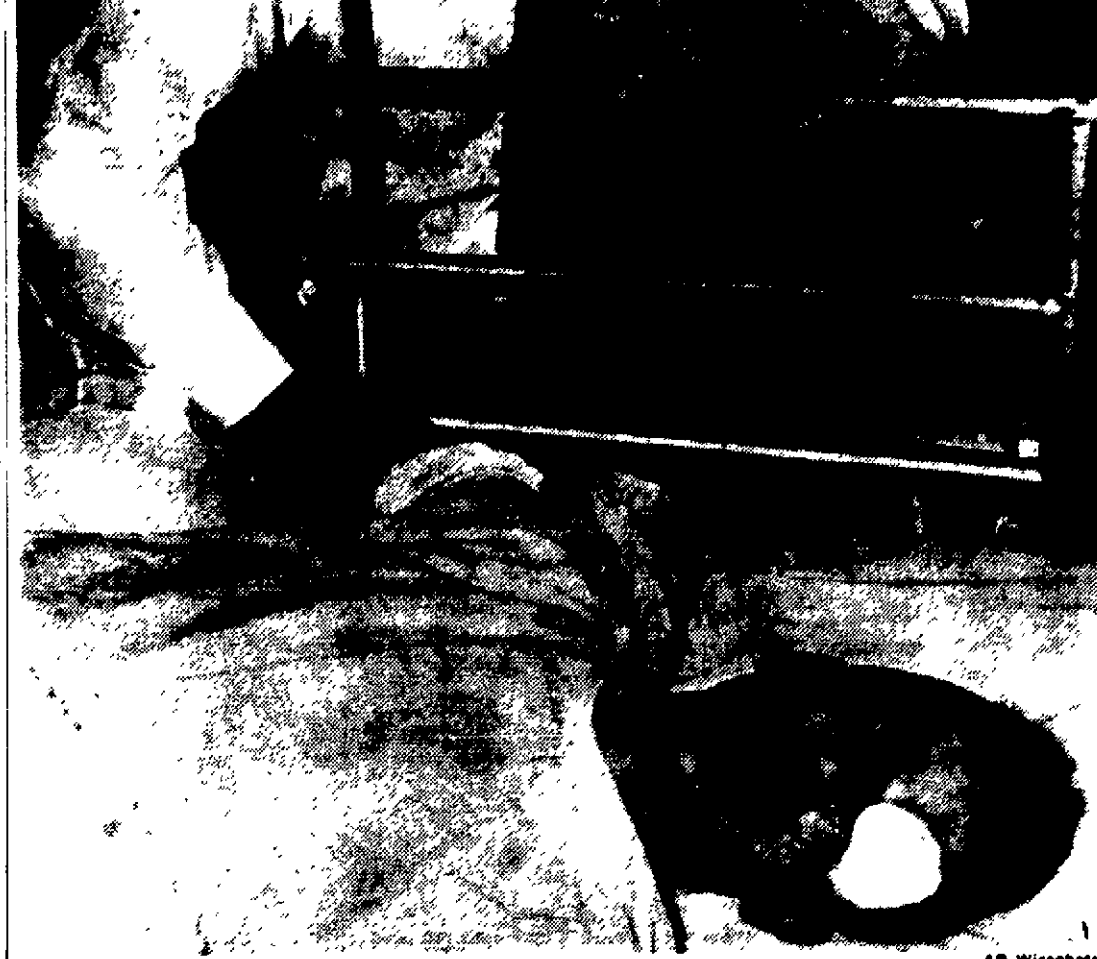

Castro told Cubans that despite these peasants — two-thirds of a U. S. economic blockade they would not lack the essentials of life. He said Cuba is the only nation in the Western Hemisphere that can guarantee food, clothing, day, medicine and education for all its people.

Adviser Defects

In Montreal, Canada, Dr. Oscar Abello, a legal adviser to the Castro government who was defending a breach of contract action involving ships bought while Batista was in power, said he has defected and plans to join anti-Castro forces.

Rolando Masferrer, one of the most notorious of Batista's former aides, was under guard in a Miami hospital. He claimed a heart condition. Masferrer was a talk before the General Conference into custody Saturday. Officials awaited a report on his condition before deciding whether to keep him in custody or deport him.

"There have been honest differences of opinion," Benson said. Department said his presence "But I was never bothered very much because in my heart I was of the United States"

Pro-Western Ngo Dinh Diem Wins Election

South Viet Nam President Gets Overwhelming Total

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Pro-Western President Ngo Dinh Diem won re-election by an even bigger margin than expected today as voters rejected Communist attempts to sabotage South Viet Nam's first democratic-style national election.

The 60-year-old bachelor president polled well over 80 per cent of the vote cast and showed his greatest strength in the hotbed of Red rebel terrorism—the swamps and rice lands of the Mekong River delta southwest of Saigon. He racked up better than 90 per cent of the vote in this region.

The Sunday voting apparently went off peacefully, without a single major incident. One grenade throwing and an ambush — with no casualties — were reported in the south.

70 Per Cent Vote

Officials estimated about 70 per cent of the nation's 7.2 million voters cast ballots Sunday after a campaign marked by increasing terrorist attacks by the Viet Cong Communists.

One official said the Communists had suffered serious losses in clashes with government forces in the last two weeks and now they had lost face by failing to carry out their threat to sabotage the election. But the Communists remained a formidable foe, and most observers believe the quiet is only a lull—that the Viet Cong remains as determined as ever to overthrow Diem's government, whose most powerful ally is the United States.

The government disclosed that more than 2,000 persons were arrested when they streamed into Saigon Saturday from the countryside. The government charged these peasants — two-thirds of them women — had been forced to take part in giant anti-government rallies planned for election day.

Medicine and education for all its people.

Ezra Benson Not Bitter at Critics Of His Policies

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP) — Former Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson says he isn't bitter at the critics of his policies during the Eisenhower administration.

Benson spoke feelingly about his eight years in the Cabinet in heart condition. Masferrer was a talk before the General Conference into custody Saturday. Officials awaited a report on his condition before deciding whether to keep him in custody or deport him.

"There have been honest differences of opinion," Benson said. Department said his presence "But I was never bothered very much because in my heart I was of the United States"

Atmosphere of Calm Abounds in Jerusalem

No Excitement in City on Eve of Long Awaited Trial of Eichmann

JERUSALEM (AP)—The astonishing thing about Jerusalem in these last hours before the start of Adolf Eichmann's trial is the atmosphere of utter calm.

But underneath, in the hearts of thousands of Israelis, the currents of feeling run deep and strong. The testimony about to be heard—the grim story of Eichmann's alleged persecution of the Jews—cannot help but revive tragic memories for many.

Yet, on the eve of a great and historic trial, there are no signs of excitement and few evidences of emotion.

No Real Crowds

No real crowds gather around the Beit Ha'am (Community Center) which has been converted into a huge courtroom. A handful of strollers and groups of teenagers pause to look at the guards and watch the equipment being installed in the building.

They stare up at the fourth floor where, presumably, Eichmann waits in a cell with barred windows. His actual whereabouts in the building are known only to the authorities.

Young girls giggle when the soldiers order them to keep moving.

Slim Pickings

What appeared to be an excited crowd suddenly clustered outside the high wire fence at one corner of the Community Center Sunday. A radio correspondent had gone out with a portable recorder to obtain man-on-the-street reactions to the trial. He found slim pickings.

The young people who made up the majority of the group were simply curious. Some pressed close to listen. Some merely laughed. There was no emphatic reaction. Nobody seemed eager to talk.

In the restaurants and hotel lobbies, you often hear the name "Eichmann" in a conversation.

Eichmann has been in custody in Israel for almost a year. He has been the subject of an immense amount of discussion. This may explain in part the absence of outward displays of feeling now.

Nixon Scheduled to Introduce Eisenhower At Republican Fete

Former Vice President Apparent Winner of Intraparty Scuffle

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon apparently has won an intraparty scuffle involving a $100-a-plate dinner here June 1.

He tentatively is scheduled to introduce former President Dwight D. Eisenhower at the dinner honoring Republican members of Congress.

GOP congressional leaders, well aware of the tug of war between Nixon, Sen. Barry Goldwater, R. Ariz., and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York for party leadership, previously had decided that Eisenhower would be the only speaker.

Nixon, Goldwater and Rockefeller were told they would be welcome as silent guests.

But the congressional contingent, some of which has been vocal in blaming Nixon personally for his loss of the presidential contest to John F. Kennedy, seemingly underestimated the former vice president's determination to assert his position as titular head of the party.

Before leaving office, Eisenhower knighted Nixon as head of the party. Rockefeller wouldn't go along with that. Goldwater said that unless Nixon ran for governor of California — which Nixon said he won't do — the former LAKE GENEVA, Wis. (AP) — The body of Tony Kaifer, 54, Lake Geneva, was found in a nearby swamp Sunday following a search by sheriff's deputies and volunteers.

Kaifer was reported missing after he failed to return home Sunday evening, some eight hours after he left the house to go for a walk. Authorities said he apparently died of a heart attack.

Reject Proposal

Party insiders said a decision to let Nixon introduce Eisenhower briefly at the June 1 dinner was reached after the congressional leaders had rejected a proposal that Eisenhower speak in Washington and Nixon in Los Angeles at simultaneous dinners, to be linked by telecast.

Nixon had been invited to be the principal speaker at a Los Angeles County fund raising dinner, first scheduled for May 25 and then changed to May 24 at his request. Later Nixon's aides notified the dinner committee his schedule was such he would be available only on June 1.

Man Two Things

Famed Writer Seems Unchanging, Though Grey Dusts His Black Hair

BY JOSEPH C. HARSCH
Senior European Correspondent,
National Broadcasting Company

To most people who have been reading him through the years, Walter Lippmann is two things—

Lippmann

a face which never seems to change in the photo graph which often accompanies his column, and a point of view which cannot be fitted under any of the stock labels by which Americans identify their personalities. The changelessness of the face is justified by fact. Walter Lippmann disciplines body as well as mind and environment. His weight, 180 pounds on a big five-foot-ten frame, has not changed in the 15 years I have known him. The quiet, inquiring eyes under the arched brows, the courteous friendliness of manner brokenly called an appeaser by Dulles, most faithful defender, "Time" magazine, and was much more sympathetic to Sir Anthony Eden than to Dulles when the two came to the parting of the ways over Suez.

No Public Voice
This record has made him the despair of self-recognized liberals and conservatives, internationalists and isolationists, Democrats and Republicans. Yet there is no degree of grey in the country more valued by these various groups. He belongs to none. His approval is desired by all.

A chance acquaintance would take him for a man in her early 50s. A distinguished collection of 12 fellow columnists, editors, his-bassadors are accredited formal-torians and statesmen recently joined in writing a book about States. It is said facetiously, but Walter Lippmann and his times not inaccurately, that new arrival on the occasion of his 70th birthday. Such a tribute has not been paid to a living American journalist. He is also philosopher and historian. In his own opinion his most important work is in philosophy.

His Politics
The difficulty of placing a stock label upon Walter Lippmann's views is also justified by the those whose causes suffer from facts. He began as a Wilsonian liberal and favored Al Smith in 1928, but doubted Franklin Roosevelt's competence for the Presidency.

Neenah Sewage Plant Operator Wins Election

Herbert Kramer, 771 Madison St., Neenah, has been elected secretary-treasurer of the Conference of Wisconsin Sewage Works Operators. Frank Gross and Roman Reichel, both operators at Appleton's sewage plant, attended the short course in plant operation, which followed the annual business meeting in Madison.

Lawrence Says

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
WASHINGTON — The big illusion lingers on. Two world leaders — President Kennedy and Prime Minister Macmillan — now have held their "summit" meeting and have issued a statement phrased in cautious generalities. The purpose is to give the impression that something substantial is being accomplished forward the cause of peace. But realism negates such an impression.

Lawrence

For peace doesn't depend on what the United States and Great Britain may wishfully say about it. Peace today depends upon mobilizing adequate forces to check the palpable effort of the communist regime in Moscow to dominate the world either by threat and a peaceful takeover or by military action in enough "local" areas to bring about submission of the West.

Doesn't Want War
The big unanswered question is what the West will do about it. What hovers over every "summit" meeting is the stark fact that the West doesn't want to fight a war and conveys the idea it will make almost any concession to avert it. The West is a loose alliance, with each nation paying lip service to unity but going its own way just the same.

A dictatorship has only one thing to think about — its own power. Its allies are so dependent upon the power of the dictator's military machine that they must go along with him. Democracy, on the other hand, has no such power. It is a collection of free governments, each with its own power. Hence, in the West, the danger of another world war is also increased by the bold policies of the communists in Cuba and Latin America. While a counter-revolution is brewing in Cuba, it is an open question how much the munitions and military advisers furnished by the Soviet Union will complicate the anti-Castro revolution and perhaps allied policy because of the frustration it causes.

What's happened recently to the West? Despite the Macmillan-Kennedy pronouncements, the truth is the West is weaker than it was a year ago. Due to the stagnation of allied policy because of the frustration it causes, the American election campaign, the Soviets have had several months to entrench themselves further and to carry on their intensive infiltration in different parts of the world. The West as yet has furnished no answer to this.

Several nations that should be allied with the West are tolerant, referred to as "neutralist" or "uncommitted" when the truth is life-and-death struggle is going on that makes it dangerous to permit any power to remain aloof and play one side against the other for material advantage.

Khrushchev smiles with satisfaction as he reads that in America there is ridicule in high places now for the Dulles truism — "If you're not for us, you are against us."

Weakening West
The whole emphasis is on weakening the West, although few participants in the crusade are aware that this is so. Still demonstration after demonstration occurs in this country and Europe calling for an end to nuclear tests, while nothing like this is happening inside the Soviet Union. In fact, even if there were an agreement to ban nuclear tests, it wouldn't mean that the use of nuclear weapons would be banned or that the nuclear stockpile would be affected. All that would happen is that the West would have to stop experimenting to perfect the necessary weapons to meet the Soviet threat. The communists, of course, who know no such thing as moral law, would violate any agreement they made.

The circumstances, moreover, that developed in the 1930's are recurring. Democracy's leaders meet and express pious hopes, but nothing is done to emphasize bluntly that the West really will make every sacrifice to preserve its freedom. If the Soviets would give evidence of good faith by withdrawing their stooges, agents, and infiltrators from all parts of the world, there might be a good chance to avert a war. No such demand came from the Macmillan-Kennedy conference. Hence, the odds favor war as long as the communists insist on stirring up military actions in the Congo and in Laos, while giving momentum to revolutions and terrorism in Algeria and engaging in outlandish invasion of a neighbor's territory, as in India and Tibet.

Cuba, Too
The danger of another world war is also increased by the bold policies of the communists in Cuba and Latin America. While a counter-revolution is brewing in Cuba, it is an open question how much the munitions and military advisers furnished by the Soviet Union will complicate the anti-Castro revolution and perhaps allied policy because of the frustration it causes.

How long can the United States, Britain and France maintain their respective policies of giving more economic assistance to "neutralist" states? How long will the West see the United Nations dominated by the votes of the small countries? How long can treason against the U.N. in the Congo by the Soviets be tolerated? Similar acts of treason occurred when the Soviets intervened against the U.N. forces in Korea.

As long as the Moscow government feels that the West is timid and irresolute, the world will face a growing danger of war. Nothing in the Macmillan-Kennedy statement served the purpose of warning Khrushchev as to what must be required of him and his cohorts to remove the danger of war.

State Public School Teachers Paid Annual Salaries of $5,075

Average Slightly Below National Level of $5,215, Report Shows

BY RICHARD P. POWERS
Associated Press Special Service

WASHINGTON (AP)— Wisconsin teachers are paid an average of $5,075 a year, or slightly below the national average of $5,215, the National Education Association reports.

The report ranks Wisconsin 23rd in teacher salaries. California was on top with an average of $6,700, Mississippi last with year for which such figures are $3,415. Michigan averages $5,925, available. The Wisconsin rejection

The report deals only with teachers in public schools.

Service Tests

Another section of the report dealt with the rejection of selective service registrants in mental tests. Wisconsin ranked 13th in the percentage of registrants failing the tests in 1959, the last of $6,700, Mississippi last with year for which such figures are $3,415. Michigan averages $5,925, available. The Wisconsin rejection rate was 10.4 per cent. Iowa had the best record, 5.6 per cent. The average for the country was 24.7 per cent.

The report showed that 7.2 per cent of the Wisconsin population 25 years of age and older had less than five years of schooling. This ranked the state 20th. Iowa led with only 3.9 per cent and Louisiana was last with 28.7 per cent. The average for the country was 11 per cent.

High Record

Wisconsin had the best record in the country in the percentage of grade school students who go on to finish high school. Its high school graduates in 1957 represented 94.9 per cent of eighth-grade enrollment in 1953-54. Minnesota was in second place with 86.2 per cent and California third with 79.7. South Carolina had the poorest showing with 47 per cent and the average for the country was 65.5 per cent.

Only 60 per cent of Wisconsin elementary school teachers have at least four years of college preparation, the report showed, putting the state 26th in a listing of 34 states. Data from the other 16 was incomplete. Oklahoma was in first place with 99.7 per cent of its teachers having at least four years of college preparation. South Dakota was 34th with 17.4 per cent.

Wisconsin ranked 14th with state and local tax collections of $9.54 per $100 of personal income in 1959. South Dakota led with $12.28, the average for the country was $8.49, while Alaska had the lowest collection with $6.08.

Schools Per Pupil

Wisconsin was 13th in a listing showing the estimated current expenditures for schools per pupil in 1960-61 with $421.69. Alaska and New York were tied at the top with $585, while Alabama brought up the rear with $217. The average for the country was $390.

The report showed that Wisconsin ranked 22nd in votes cast in the 1960 presidential election as a percentage of the number of persons of voting age with 72.9 per cent. Wyoming had the best showing with a turnout of 83.9 per cent. Mississippi had the poorest showing with 25.6 per cent while the average for the country was 64.3 per cent.

MOTHERS THINK OF EVERYTHING, DON'T THEY?

Q Does a puppy get immunity from its mother's milk until it is weaned or does it have to get a distemper shot as soon as it is born?

R. Papantonio, Scarsdale, N.Y.

A Mother's milk, particularly the first milk or colostrum, is very rich in antibodies and does protect the young. As most dogs in our cities have either been immunized against distemper or through constant exposure have acquired an immunity to it, the puppy will be safe while nursing. How soon after this the puppy should receive a distemper shot is dependent on the degree of immunity the mother had just prior to his birth. A veterinarian can run a blood test on the mother before the birth of her puppies to measure her degree of immunity. He then gives you a nomograph which tells you when her offspring will need immunization shots.

Part Indian of Green Bay Knows Guarded Cures of Medicine Men

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

In more than 400 years white botanists and physicians have not discovered any medical herb that was unknown to the American Indians.

Hence it is true that we must not underestimate the shamans, the medicine men, the conjurers and the mystics who served as tribal physicians.

Consider Raymond C. Lawe of this city, who is a mixture of white, Menominee and Stockbridge Indian and who is employed as a statistician for the Chicago and North Western Railway Co.

Lawe, 65, is a firm believer in the ancient curative skills of the Indian.

I grew up with those people and I have seen many wonderful things, he said. More than secrets of the old shamans — the music, the dance, the herbs, grass, bark, to go bad, and berries used for centuries.

the ice and caused him to drown.

They were not prepared for Mandabus' fury. His rage was so great that he frightened the gods into trying to placate him. They offered him a wonderful present — the medicines and the medical dances to be used for curing illnesses. Each of the gods had a certain series of medicines and songs. And each in turn taught these to Mandabus.

Firmly Believes Story

It is a very long and quite a beautiful story and it is thoroughly believed by modern day medicine men, Lawe said.

He declined to reveal to the reporter the names or the character of the herbs and roots he

Practice Illegal

Although the last fully recognized medicine man of the Menominee, Naphone Perote, died last year at the age of 94, some of the old technique have been preserved. To a certain extent some of these are still practiced among some of the Menominees.

Lawe, whose Indian name, Pawee-tanima, means "One who comes in the hurricane," is too wise to practice the curative methods of the old medicine men because it is not legal.

Instead, however, he employs some of the old wisdom upon himself and with some pride points to his nearly incredible employment record.

"I am 65 years old," he said, "and people tell me I look like I am 50. I have worked at the railroad for 31 years and I believe I have been absent only 3 times during that period. I am very healthy except that I had the flu once in 1918."

The Indians carry their curative skills — so goes the legend — because Mandabus, a culture hero, grew angry at the gods.

Mandabus First Man

Mandabus had been put on earth as the first of all men according to the legend which has been handed down over thousands of camp fires over many years. Mandabus' duty was to make the world a more suitable place for the people who would come later.

Because he was lonely, the gods provided him with a brother — a wolf — of whom he became very fond. But one day Mandabus said something which angered the gods. To punish him they lured the wolf onto

Canvass Board Completes Count Of Tuesday Vote

The official canvass of the Outagamie County spring primary election vote completed Thursday showed the results almost identical with the unofficial reports of Tuesday night.

Mrs. Mollie Pfeiffer, county clerk and member of the canvassing board, said the official totals in the supreme court justice primary showed Steward G. Honeck had 4,051 votes, Myron L. Gordon 1,902 and Christ Alexopoulos 358, exactly the same figures reported Tuesday.

In the state superintendent of public instruction race the 2,651 total for Angus B. Rothwell and 185 votes for Arlin F. Wolienburg were the same as the unofficial count. Frederick Frick received 244 votes, William J. Fenelon 338 and Ralph M. Gibson 327. The Fenelon and Frick totals were 10 less and 10 more respectively on the unofficial tally and the Gibson count was one vote too low.

Also serving on the canvassing board were Supervisors Max Kuehl, Appleton and John Corcoran, Kaukauna.

West German Army To Continue Use of 'Racially Pure' Term

BOON, Germany (AP)— The West German army is going to continue calling some of its units racially pure, despite the unpopularity Adolf Hitler gave the expression. Defense Minister Josef Strauss told Parliament.

The army uses the expression to designate units that have the same weapons throughout.

Gerhart Jahn, a member of the Socialist opposition suggested the army change to "pure in type" to avoid confusion with the Nazi era connotation. Strauss refused, saying the expression couldn't be bad in itself since animal breeders have continued to use it with out provoking criticism.

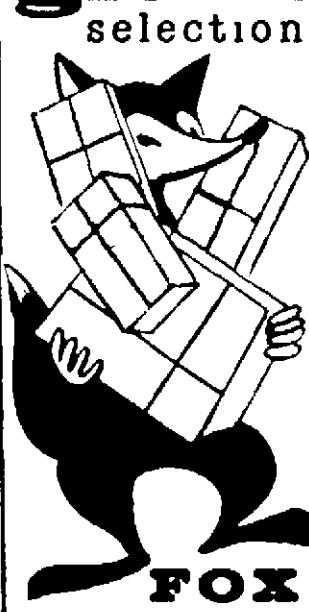

Married Men Best Drivers, Test Shows

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)— After giving aptitude tests to 20,000 drivers, Dr. Donald Schuster of the University of Southern California says married former servicemen over 30 make the best drivers.

The worst drivers are unmarried teenagers and men who frequently change jobs.

Women appear to be better drivers than men, Dr. Schuster says, but they drive only a fifth the miles men do.

Nothing to Scoff at Lawe is literate and charming, and educated in a white man's world. So it is perhaps surprising that he believes in the ancient curative arts as firmly as he does.

He is much in demand as a public speaker on these and allied subjects, and also as a conjurer and performer in rituals of ancient times. It is not for this department to scoff at to gain a dignified friendship wherein the anthropologists have generally referred to him as believed that much of the medicine men did a great service. There is also said Lawe a cure for baldness. However, one of the evidence that the art works.

Model Says Gardening Trims Figure
Makes Exercising More Pleasant, Helps Plants, Too
Want the svelte figure of a glamorous fashion model? What woman doesn't—but according to one of the most photographed young beauties in the United States, wanting isn't enough. You have to dig for it. So now is a good time to get out fitted for some exercise in the garden. This is even better than following the stretch instructor on television, because when you get done more than the feminine figure has been beautified. Don't forget the benefits of sunshine and fresh air.
Model Speaks
"But you have to spade, sow, weed—and occasionally, even fertilize," says stunning Patricia Hutar, whose pretty face is probably as familiar to you as the girl's next door. You've seen Patricia on the pages of your favorite fashion magazines dozens of times and you've probably wondered "where do they grow girls like that?"
Patricia answers "in a garden." A trim 121 pounds, twenty-four-year-old Patricia has an even more pressing reason than most women for this—she also has a healthy appetite and finds exercise for its own sake a bore.
'Cultivate' Figure
"Because a misplaced pound shows up on a fashion model like a ton, this could all be a problem if I hadn't decided to 'cultivate' a slim figure," says Patricia and, the puns intentional.
'Gardening Fun'
A love of flowers led the brunette model into gardening and, paradoxically enough, a dislike of exercise kept her at it.
"I find gardening so much fun. I never think of it as exercise," Patricia explains, "yet I do more than enough swooping, stooping and moving around to keep the pounds down."
Patricia thinks the secret of keeping thin through exercise is to do it consistently and she says that's one of the ways gardening makes it so painless.
If I were to set aside a half hour a day to touch my toes and do knee bends I just wouldn't have the willpower and patience to keep at it," Patricia admits.
Painless Exercise
"Out in the garden I do the equivalent of all that exercise and never notice it. It's because gardening grows on one—if you'll excuse another pun—and it comes so interesting that all you think of are the flowers and vegetables, not the exercise.
Another bonus of gardening is that it's a time saver," says Patricia. Because her busy modeling schedule gives her little free time, she wants any exercise she does to be recreational as well as pound removing.
"Out in the garden I get the kind of recreation that lets my tensions unwind," she explains, "and as any working girl knows, it's something to be desired."
Besides how else could I convert my excess pounds into flower bouquets?

Construction in State Increased During January
Wisconsin construction on non-residential buildings totaled $38,027,000 during January, a 4 per cent increase in dollar volume compared to January 1960. F. W. Dodge Corporation, New York, reported to the Dodge Company, construction marketing specialists, provided this breakdown of the future construction work in the state:
Non-residential $21,897,000, up 41 per cent; residential $16,923,000, up one per cent; and heavy engineering, $9,207,000, down 41 per cent.

Dry Mop Walls
When dusting walls as a prelude to painting, be sure to use a clean dry mop or cloth. Do not use an oil mop or a treated cloth. The oil or other substance may leave a thin film on the wall which will prevent the new paint from adhering properly.

Questions and Answers
Q Is it true that gas furnaces create a great amount of moisture?
A Moisture is released as gas burns. However, if a gas furnace is properly vented to a chimney, the moisture will be disposed of without harm.
Q Is it true that light colored shingles or other roofing helps to keep a house cooler during hot weather?
A Yes, the lighter in color any roofing is the more it will reflect the sun's heat away. In some cases the heat gain is reduced by as much as 20 per cent.
Q What causes paint to peel off wood siding?
A Peeling takes place because the siding becomes wet under the paint. In most cases, condensation is the cause of wet siding.

Do It Yourself Handyman Can Make Flagstones for Walk

BY J. RALPH DALZELL
Author of Books on Home Building and Repair
Flagstone areas and walks rank high in home improvement projects. Now is the time to plan and make the concrete flagstones.
One advantage of home made concrete flagstones is that they can be made in any desirable shape to accomplish any design pattern. Another is that color can be employed in both the stones and joints between the stones. The work is not difficult and all materials, including bags of ready mixed concrete, are available and relatively inexpensive.
The first step is to plan the approximate size and shape of the area or walk. This can be done by taking measurements in the desired locations and making a preliminary sketch of the area or walk. Use the one-half inch scale (substitute one-half inch for a foot).
Several Patterns
Areas. Picture 1 shows a simple pattern using stones which are twelve inches square and one and one-half inch wide joints between stones. Stones of that size are easy to make and handle. Picture 2 shows the use of larger stones suitable for an extensive area. Picture 3 shows a somewhat more elaborate pattern using stones of two sizes. Note that the smaller stones must be planned so that with the indicated joint between them the overall length of two is equal to the length of the large stone. Any number of shapes and patterns can be designed.
When stone shapes and a pattern have been decided, draw the stone outlines in the sketch using the same scale. A twelve inch square stone is drawn one half inch square and mortar joints about one-sixteenth inch wide. The outline of the area may have to be enlarged a little to accommodate the pattern. However, after a few trials a satisfactory design and plan can be developed.
DRAW SKETCH
First, draw a sketch composed of parallel lines to indicate the walk. Use the one-half inch scale to show the width or distance between lines. Then fill in the pattern using various stone shapes and sizes. Plan to use joints one and one-half inches wide. Be careful to plan stone sizes so that with joints the overall widths of smaller stones equal the length of the largest stone. For example, the length of stone C plus joint thickness, plus the width of stone B equals the length of stone A.
WOOD FORMS Picture 5 shows a combination form for making stones A, B, C and D (shown in picture 4). The form should be made of 2 x 4 stock and one inch boards. Similar forms suitable for making stones (shown in Pictures 1, 2 and 3) are also easy to make. Oil or wax the inside of the forms so hardened concrete will not stick to them.

Condemnation Study Planned

Court Testimony, Nine-Hour Exam in Appraisers' Course
Two prominent appraisers will be instructors for a case study course in condemnation appraising and court testimony in Chicago March 18-25. Charles A. Kober Jr., St. Louis, president of the American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers, announced today.
Faculty members are Robert L. Free, MAI, member appraisal institute, Cleveland, and M. Jeffery Holbrook, MAI, Portland, Ore. Both are experienced teachers and authors of appraisal articles.
The Knickerbocker Hotel will be headquarters for the course. Students who successfully complete a nine-hour written examination will receive credit toward the MAI designation.
Test Problems
The study course is based on prepared case material designed to illustrate typical condemnation appraisal assignments and problems. Material will cover a wide variety of properties and problems and will deal extensively with partial property takings. Students will make actual appraisals as well as solve actual condemnation problems both individually and in group seminars.
Free has 28 years experience in real estate appraising, including eight years appraising and court testimony and is past general chairman of the institute's education committee.
Holbrook, in the real estate business since 1936, has specialized in appraisals and real estate consulting for 11 years. He is qualified as an expert witness by circuit and federal courts. He has served as a vice president of the Institute of Real Estate Management and of the National Institute of Real Estate Brokers, and as a national director of the American Right of Way Association.

Glass Block Insulates
Glass block is the perfect material for providing a source of daylight where structural strength and privacy are desired. It has insulating qualities equal to an eight inch masonry wall.

Sow Grass in Soil That Is Frost-Pitted

Seed Early for Best Possible Spring Growth
BY DR. ROBERT W. SCHERY
Director of the Lawn Institute
Most seed is sown in spring even though autumn is recognized as an especially desirable season for seeding.
Spring seedings have a good chance of success if made early enough to establish the bluegrass and fescues before hot weather. The Lawn Institute advises seeding a new lawn, or bolstering a thin sown just as early as you have the will to get out of doors. Successful seedings are often made on frost pitted soil in late winter.
Winter and early spring seedings ordinarily will not respond as quickly as do those of autumn. Cooler surroundings for the seed is the limitation. Even when air temperatures are rather warm in spring, soils remain cold from winter. They warm only slowly because so much moisture is contained at this season. Think back to your high school physics, water has the highest heating coefficient, takes longer to warm than anything else. Cold wet soils don't harm the seed, but they slow up appearance of the seedling.
Temperature Important
So prepare to have patience with early spring seedings. Tests have indicated that bluegrass seed kept below 50 degrees takes about 8 or 9 weeks to show appreciable green fuzz. Plump, high-quality seed grows a bit faster than does light weight seed, but all are slowed down by the cold.
The same seed receiving 80 degree daytime temperatures shows an appreciable green in a week. That's why some experts have suggested sprouting lawn seed in doors, wetted down in plastic sacks, then sowing it. This is seldom practical, though, if for no other reason than seed handling becomes cumbersome.
In the lawn it is virtually impossible to control temperature. Heat can be trapped to some extent by covering new seedings with a clear plastic, staked into the soil with large headed nails or wire wickets. On sunny days temperatures beneath the polyethylene may be 20 or more degrees above general soil readings. But this introduces a hazard, too, in that seed once soaked for sprout may be killed if temperatures rise much above 100 degrees. If scratches and nicks because moisture can enter the timest breaks, cal level on bright days, obvi-

Here's the Answer
BY ANDY LANG
AP Housewife
QUESTION: We have two metal ceilings in our house. Both are peeling badly. They have probably been painted three or four times. I have been working on one of the ceilings trying to scrape off the peeling paint. It is a tough, messy job, especially because the ceilings are of a wavy design and very hard to scrape. Is there some other way I can get the paint off and when I do, how should they be repainted to prevent it happening all over again?
ANSWER: It appears that you will have to use paint remover. There are viscous ones on the market which will adhere better to the ceiling than the liquid type. But it is still going to be a tough, messy job. Once the paint has been removed and the surface neutralized, according to instructions on the label, you can repaint.
Check whether the metal is galvanized steel, in which case a special primer should be applied, followed by an alkyl paint or enamel. If the metal is not galvanized steel, use an anti-corrosive, then an alkyl top coat. Before applying the paint remover cover everything in the room with cloths and/or newspapers. Even a single drop of paint remover will take the finish off a piece of furniture or ruin a rug.

Tree Stumps Best Removed By Burning

Slow Charcoal Fire
Will Disintegrate
Wood, Some Roots

Anyone who had to cut down a tree on his property faced the problem of getting rid of the stump.

Here is a solution that is both easy and economical — burn it away.

Thus can be done with the aid of wood charcoal briquets, a staple that is now readily at hand in almost every household as a result of the recent trend to outdoor and indoor barbecues.

The charcoal method of removing tree stumps is particularly helpful where stumps are close to a built up walkway or curbing, flower bed or driveway, or any where else where digging out the roots would be difficult.

Small stumps 20 inches in diameter or less, can best be removed by using an old 55 gallon oil drum with both ends removed. On larger stumps, a piece of light gauge sheet metal can serve the purpose using two small clamps to hold it in circular shape around the stump to be removed. For best effect shape the metal so that there is a space two to four inches wide between it and the stump.

Remove Sod First

Before placing the drum or sheet metal around the stump remove the sod or dirt from 4 to 6 inches around the stump to a depth of 3 or 4 inches. Set the drum or sheet metal on three or four bricks, stones or other non-combustible material to provide adequate draft.

Kindle a fire around the stump and when it is burning well, fill the space between the stump and encircling metal with wood charcoal briquets. A cover must then be placed on top so the charcoal will burn only at the bottom. The intense heat will disintegrate the stump.

Additional wood charcoal briquets can be added as needed about once a day until the stump is consumed. The length of time to burn stumps depends on their size and on whether the stump is old or freshly cut.

With Economy in Mind, but luxury not forgotten, this compact home contains many of the extras found only in larger homes. There are three good size bedrooms, large closets and 1½ baths. Total living area in the home is 1,030 square feet.

House of the Week

Compact Home Has Luxury

BY DAVID L. BOWEN

Designing a house so that it will give a lifetime of comfort and anticipate the needs of a family is no easy task under any conditions.

Just as a housewife discovers in planning the family meals, the smaller the budget the more difficult the job. Anybody can cook appetizing meals with steak in every menu the challenge comes when the piece de resistance must be hamburger.

For the architect devising a plan for an efficient and comfortable three bedroom home, inside 1,000 sq. ft. of space is parallel to the housewife's problem of serving interesting meals on a hamburger budget. And just as the housewife splurges now and then,

B-54 Statistics

This small house offers three bedrooms and 1½ baths in a first floor total of 1,030 sq. ft. of living space. Plans for development of a basement include another lavatory, recreation room, hobby room and sewing center and laundry. Width of the house itself is 37'8". Breezeway and garage add 26' to the width making total 63'8". Either or both could be eliminated or left out of original construction. Depth is 27'4".

on a good cut of beef. Architect Derrick B. Kipp fudged a bit on his space budget in House of the Week, B-54 to push the total to 1,030 sq. ft.

Area Comfort

But inside this spartan limitation he managed to include oversized closets in each of the three bedrooms, a private half bath for the master bedroom, a well proportioned living room with fireplace, a coat closet at the entrance vestibule and comfortable dining space in the kitchen.

"Area comfort is stressed in this plan," Architect Kipp explains. "Large rooms in every living zone have been worked out with sufficient hall space to separate areas, but without wasting any space. With a central vestibule even a modest home such as this one can count on the advantages of good circulation which leave the living room free of unnecessary traffic."

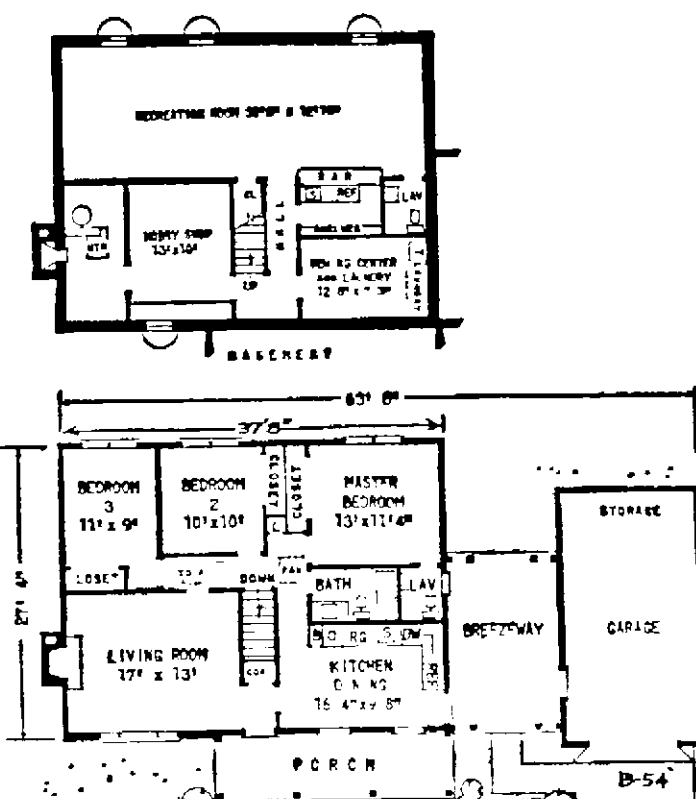

As an economy bonus, the exterior walls form a simple rectangle and plumbing is concentrated in a single wall. Width of house alone is 37'8". Breezeway and garage add 26' to an overall total of 63'8". Depth is 27'4".

Easy to Decorate

The living room is planned with good wall space and one big front window for easy furniture arrangement. It has a fine proportion that makes it easy to decorate. The curse of many a small house — the main door opening directly into the living room — is avoided with a small entrance vestibule.

For formal dining, the long wall on the kitchen side of the living room can be used most efficiently for setting up a buffet. For smaller or informal parties, the area at the front of the kitchen, with two handsome windows to brighten it, makes a pleasant dining area.

Concrete. If colored concrete is desired, the color compound should be mixed dry. Use enough water to make the concrete easy to handle. Fill the forms and level the concrete with a straightedge moved back and forth across the forms. When the concrete has lost its shine (starts to harden) use a wood trowel to smooth the surface. Do not attempt to remove the stones from the form for at least three days. Handle the stones gently and place them where they can gradually dry.

The Straight-Line Arrangement of rooms in this house makes it possible to have adequate space for comfortable living in a rather small area. Placing the heating unit on one end of the basement leaves ample room for recreation and hobby rooms, plus storage.

The kitchen is unusually large for an economy home. Arrangement of oven, range, sink, dish washer, counters and refrigerator in a long generous "L" should make most housewives cheer. There's even a broom closet. Because of the size of the room, work and storage counters and cabinets do not intrude on the decor pattern which the home maker chooses for the dining section.

Attached Breezeway

An attached breezeway opening into the kitchen is a good spot for outdoor living in the summer. Some families may want to enclose this area later for a family room or screen or glass it in as a permanent porch.

B-54's basement has a recreation room all the way across the back with its own bar, a convenient lavatory and a party kitchen sink refrigerator and storage shelves. There's a hobby room next to the furnace room. In addition to these entertaining and recreation bonuses, Mother has a laundry and sewing center completely set off from the other areas.

Each of the children's bedrooms has a minimum of 6 of closets and the master closet is over 8' wide. A linen closet in the bedroom hall and a coat closet in the vestibule add to the storage capacity. Access to attic storage is shown in the bedroom ferret from the others. A floor of hall and there's still more space solid vinyl tile in matching or contrasting shade also will work.

Fire Chiefs Ask Spring Clean-Ups

The International Association of Fire Chiefs is again sponsoring spring clean up campaigns across the country to reduce fire hazards. Fox Cities fire chiefs are urging all home owners and tenants to clean all rubbish, particularly inflammable material, from houses, garages and stores.

The chiefs noted that disposing of inflammable material is not tough. Heaps of just plain junk in attics or basements and garages often hinder firemen in their efforts to reach the source of a fire.

The value of old paper, boxes, worn out furniture and broken toys will never equal the replacement value of a home or the cost of repairs, they said.

A report from the international association says there are more than 1 million fires in the United States every year, with many of them due to carelessness in storing old paper and oily rags.

Every year the report says, 11,600 persons die in fires, some of which start in rubbish filled attics and basements.

Magic With Color

If you wish to change emphasis in the shape of a room, try storage capacity. Access to attic storage is shown in the bedroom ferret from the others. A floor of hall and there's still more space solid vinyl tile in matching or contrasting shade also will work.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer J. Kensinger, Santa Cruz Calif. are shown locked in the Police station after their arrest for keeping their 13-year-old daughter Elaine (inset) locked in her room for nearly seven years. The girl told police she was allowed out only to attend school. Her parents offered no explanations for their actions.

Out Only for School California Girl Kept In Room for 7 Years

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (AP) — Except during school hours she was locked in her room for seven years and never had a bath during that time, a 13-year-old related.

When a juvenile official gave her a toothbrush and paste the girl, Elaine Kensinger didn't know what they were for.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer J. Kensinger are in jail in lieu of $2,500 bail each.

They were charged yesterday with child neglect and contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Taken to Juvenile Hall

Elaine, her sister Mary, 4, and brothers Frank, 10, and Robert, 8, were taken to Santa Cruz County Juvenile Hall.

"Never have I seen a more abominable degrading and disgusting way of life for any person to be subjected to," Juvenile Officer Sue Curtis said.

Elaine, an eighth grader is a shy child—ashamed of her dirty yellowed school clothing, her teachers said.

Kensinger told officers Elaine was confined for using vile words and cursing her mother. Mrs. Kensinger refused to talk to police or reporters.

The girls' 10 by 12 foot room was described by officers as "utter filth." A door leading to a bathroom was nailed shut. The only toilet facility available was a coffee can, officer Curtis noted.

The case came to attention of authorities when her father, who runs a shop dealing in coins and second-hand goods, reported her as a runaway.

When she was found at the home of a girl friend, Kensinger asked that she be taken to Juvenile Hall as punishment.

Elaine burst into tears and told her story.

Coaches to Pressure Legislature Once More Will React to Close Vote on Proposal To Strike Required Physical Education

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — School athletic coaches and physical education instructors Thursday got a signal for a new campaign of pressure upon the state legislature in support of state statutory requirements for physical education in the schools.

The state Assembly by a 49 to 47 vote approved a bill that would permit local school boards to decide whether specific periods of such instruction are needed in the local school curricula.

Traditionally the state law has prevailed and it has required a minimum of 150 minutes of such formal instruction each week.

A legislative interim committee, with encouragement of professional educational administrators, asked for the repeal of that and other specific course requirements in state law.

Curriculum organization should be according to local conditions and judgements, according to the committee finding. It added that the state requirements now are unsuited to the abilities of many of the smaller school districts.

Kennedy Asks Nikita to Back Neutral Laos

Laos Most Urgent

Diplomatic authorities here said that the Laos crisis was foremost among many subjects which the U. S. diplomat and the Soviet premier discussed. Thompson had carried a written message from Kennedy to Khrushchev expressing hope for an improvement in U. S. Soviet relations and declaring Kennedy's complete confidence in Thompson.

In addition Thompson had detailed instructions on a wide variety of subjects including the current crises which carry the great danger of direct military clash between American and Soviet forces or forces backed by them.

Secretary of State Rusk told a news conference yesterday that the situation in Laos is at the moment in a state of negotiation rather than stalemate. He thus kept open official hope that diplomatic efforts would avoid the military showdown which U. S. officials fear might draw in larger and larger forces on both sides and engulf all of Southeast Asia.

President Kennedy said at his news conference Wednesday that the United States has been hopeful that it would be possible to set up some procedures where neutral nations could guarantee the security of Laos and also isolate it from military pressures on both sides.

Kennedy is said to have offered assurance to Khrushchev through Thompson that the United States has no designs whatever on Laos and is fully prepared to treat it as a strictly neutral country and under conditions which would protect it from propaganda literature and other propaganda.

Nationalists Will Only Represent Formosa in UN, Eleanor Says

AMHERST, Mass. (AP) — Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, a U. S. delegate to the United Nations, opposes that the Nationalist Chinese U. N. delegation be limited to representing Formosa.

The fiction of Formosa's repudiation, the Chinese people will not be acceptable at the next session, she said Thursday night in a speech at University of Massachusetts.

Mrs. Roosevelt said Red China currently is unqualified for U. N. membership because of warlike declarations and invasion of Tibet. She pointed out that even native despotism, admittance to the U. N. must declare its peaceful intentions.

West German Police Raid Communist Cells

DUESSELDORF, Germany (AP) — Thirty people were rounded up in what West German police Thursday described as their heaviest raid on the Communist underground in the Ruhr.

Police said cells of the outlawed party in 20 Rhenish towns were raided and three printing shops seized. A substantial underground network of Communist propaganda literature seized.

reputed to have agreed to a form of joint control over U. N. air traffic in the Congo.

Details Lacking

The Congolese informants gave no details of the reported agreement. Nor did they say whether the Congolese were modifying other conditions they said must be met before they would allow U. N. troops to return to the post of Mutshi from which a S. S. d. e. garrison was driven Sunday after two days of fighting.

Only minor Congolese leaders for opening up Mutshi where U. N. troops are expected within the next week or so were. Joint control over other strategic points held by U. N. forces. That Congolese government by U. N. troops be subject to Congolese approval.

Mikoyan and Khrushchev did find in chief of the U. N. mission Vereyregol along here with acting Premier Albert Delvaux and Foreign Minister Justin Bonboko who are heading the Leopoldville government while President Joseph Kasavubu and Premier Joseph Iléo are attending the Congo political conference at Tananarive, Madagascar.

Message to Kasavubu

U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld meanwhile sent a sharp message to Kasavubu in effect rejecting any Congolese control of the U. N. force's activity. He reminded Kasavubu that his government had pledged to give the U. N. force freedom of movement.

The conference in Tananarive was reiterated shaping up what in effect would be a federation of autonomous Congolese states. U. N. troops are expected within the Congo Leopoldville which in fact has not far moved since shortly after the Congo gained independence from Belgium last summer.

Details were left to be worked out at a later conference but Iléo told newsmen the leaders had agreed to the principle of creating new states in the Congo to take their places alongside existing states. Other leaders indicated the conference had agreed to accept the political divisions proposed for the time being.

Indonesia Breaks Off Diplomatic Relations With the Netherlands

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Indonesia today broke off the in direct diplomatic relations it had kept with its former rulers, The Netherlands.

A foreign ministry spokesman announced Britain had been asked to stop representing the Netherlands in Jakarta and the United Arab Republic had been asked to stop representing Indonesia in the Hague.

The complete break followed Indonesian claims of an increasing Dutch military buildup in Dutch-occupied Western New Guinea, which Indonesia claims. Indonesia broke direct diplomatic relations with the Netherlands last August over the New Guinea issue.

Indonesia wants no more dealings with the Dutch, a foreign ministry spokesman said.

Social Worker Says Violent Girls Often Cause of Gang Wars

WASHINGTON (AP) — A social worker says "promiscuous, truant and violent" teen-age girls are often the cause of juvenile gang wars.

They are rumor carriers, trouble carriers, weapon carriers, narcotic carriers and sometimes disease carriers, Arthur J. Rogers told the Senate subcommittee on juvenile delinquency Thursday. He is an assistant to the New York City Youth Services Commission.

It's Your Landscape Prepare Plant Layout To Compliment House

BY GEORGE E. CRIFT
Landscape Architect

To many people landscaping means simply the planting of an assortment of shrubs around the foundation of a house.

Many more aspects of landscaping are more important than this but it is true that when a house is new and the grounds about it are barren of vegetation even a little planting can improve its appearance. For this reason in landscaping it is natural for the homeowner to give priority to foundation planting.

Since foundation planting can be expensive it will pay to give careful thought and to plan well before going ahead with the actual work. Work with a definite scheme in mind and avoid many of the pitfalls that occur when planting is done haphazardly.

A foreign ministry spokesman announced Britain had been asked to stop representing the Netherlands in Jakarta and the United Arab Republic had been asked to stop representing Indonesia in the Hague.

The complete break followed Indonesian claims of an increasing Dutch military buildup in Dutch-occupied Western New Guinea, which Indonesia claims. Indonesia broke direct diplomatic relations with the Netherlands last August over the New Guinea issue.

Indonesia wants no more dealings with the Dutch, a foreign ministry spokesman said.

This planting enframes the window nicely but blocks neither the light nor the view.

Planting should never make access to utilities difficult. Sketch No. 7 shows a water faucet with planting in front of it. Water faucets should be easy to get to as in Sketch No. 8 where planting is spaced in proper relation with the faucet.

Many Suggestions Summarized As Governor's Conference Ends

Does BLADDER IRRITATION MAKE YOU NERVOUS?

Thousands are now discovering how much stronger and better they can feel by combating ordinary kidney or bladder irritations. Secondly, you may lose sleep and suffer from headaches, backache and feel old, tired, depressed. prescriptions for meeting the needs of Wisconsin's young people, a member of the National Committee on Children and Youth summarized at the closing session of the 1½-day meeting.

Dr. Donald Brieland, Barrington, Ill., recounted some of the many youth problems identified and solutions suggested in forum and workshop sessions, in which teen-agers and adults participated in near equal numbers.

Doctor Impressed

Dr. Brieland said he was impressed by the young people's intelligence, clear headedness and willingness to participate. He pointed out that discussions on moral standards and human rights attracted more youths than adults, and mental health workshop participants were mostly adults.

The difficult, technical language and concepts of mental health must be translated to attract youth, he commented.

The rapidity of social change, especially change in the family, was a recurring theme in discussions, Brieland said. He urged acceptance of the fact that as long as there are employment opportunities, mothers will work. More time should be spent on the problems created by the mother who does not work outside the home but who sees her children as a barrier to employment, he suggested.

'Snare, Delusion'

"High school marriage is a snare and delusion for most," Brieland said. He saw one of the biggest arguments against teenage marriages as the ceiling it puts on educational and career goals.

The average public school program is becoming increasingly academic, narrow and college-oriented, Brieland said. This trend is crowding out family life education, which must have a sound program that is easily understood if it is to be accepted, he said. The family may be a unit for group psychotherapy, because most problems concern the whole family, it was suggested.

Lessening Rules

Adults and teen-agers commented often that parents should set and children accept limits, which were considered symbols of love and concern. This isn't necessarily so, Brieland said, calling for gradual reduction of rules as chil-

Eichmann Trial Raises Mixed German Feeling

Ranges From Guilt To Indifference on Eve of Israel Event

BONN, Germany (AP) — West Germans today looked with mixed feelings toward Israel and the trial of Nazi SS leader Adolf Eichmann—feelings of fear, guilt, remorse and also indifference.

The Bonn government is worried that the trial will arouse the world anew against Germany. Chancellor Konrad Adenauer himdren grow older and accept more responsibility themselves.

Parents see responsibility as the major mark of maturity, while teen-agers expect more privileges as they grow up, Brieland said. Recognition of this difference is a basis for better understanding between adults and children, he said.

Gerald Purchatzke, Oshkosh, was one of four young people called to the stage as last year's winners of citations for service by youth. Purchatzke was active in school, church and community affairs and was president of Oshkosh Youth Council.

self has appealed for understanding and forgiveness.

There is fear that Eichmann may implicate persons active today in the West German government.

Bad Ones

"I hope we cleaned out all the bad ones," said one high official. "It would be horrible if he implicated someone in the government today."

The man in the street generally expresses guilt and remorse but there have been some who told this reporter: "We are not going to learn anything we didn't know 16 years ago."

The Bonn Justice Ministry issued a report March 29 showing that West German courts tried and sentenced at least 2,027 Nazi criminals between 1945 and 1960 for crimes ranging from simple assault to mass murder.

But this report covers only three of the 10 states and West Berlin. The Justice Ministry says seven states have kept no statistics on such trials.

There is no doubt that Nazi criminals were vigorously pursued and tried by West German authorities. But this lack of trial statistics could well be an indica-

TV Turns Its Attention to Eichmann

Television turned its attention over the weekend to the forthcoming trial in Israel of Adolf Eichmann.

Both ABC and NBC had special programs on the background of the case against the former Nazi charged with systematic extermination of Jews during World War II.

ABC's documentary relied primarily on interviews with survivors of the German death camps and with Israelis concerned with the trial. NBC dipped more extensively into Nazi history with grim films showing emaciated victims and the horrible camp conditions. Included was a shocking bit of out-of-focus film showing Nazi SS troops literally dragging men and women—many of them old and feeble—from their homes and shoving them into trucks.

As one survivor said, "It is not Eichmann who is on trial, but mankind and man's potentiality for mass murder."

Coolly enlightening was NBC's debate Saturday night on "The Nation's Future," when two experts argued whether Eichmann's trial in Israel serves the cause of international justice.

Both Dr. Milton Katz of Harvard—who thinks it does—and Dr. Herbert Wechsler of Columbia—who took the negative—carefully steered clear of the inflammatory and the searing memory. They stayed within the legal aspects of the case—Israel's right to try the man. Both agreed it would have been preferable for Eichmann to be tried by an international tribunal, if such a court existed.

"No yearly 'spring break-up' headaches around here since we got our concrete streets!"

When the frost leaves the ground—that's the time concrete really proves its worth. You won't find springtime potholes, ruts and washouts on modern concrete streets. No bruised tires or frazzled tempers. No patching crews rushing out as soon as the weather breaks.

The "spring break-up" season holds no hazards for concrete streets because concrete is rigid and solid instead of soft and flexible. It spreads traffic loads across the spongy, thawed ground beneath it. And a concrete street has the strength and thickness to keep "frost boils" from working through the pavement.

That's one good reason concrete's upkeep costs stay so low. You keep on saving money year after year with all-weather concrete streets.

Goldwater Starting To Crowd Nixon

Arizona Senator Jockeying For '64 GOP Presidential Nod

BY WILLIAM S. WHITE
WASHINGTON — Sen. Barry Goldwater, Arizona, is beginning to crowd Richard M. Nixon just a little in the still very preliminary jockeying for a still very distant prize, the 1964 Republican presidential nomination.

As recently as two months ago any realistic estimate would have been about this. The nomination clearly seemed to lie in prospect between the former vice-president and Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of has now been laid out to begin with a May 5 speech in the metropolis of midwestern heartland Republicanism, Chicago.

Nixon, moreover, has found himself under strong pressure to involve himself in the run-off campaign in Texas for the senate seat held by Lyndon Johnson before his elevation to the vice-presidency.

Win Russell

Goldwater in the first round of that campaign went into Texas with obvious helpfulness to the Republican contender, John G. Tower. Tower might just conceivably win the run-off to become the first Republican senator from Texas since the reconstruction era that followed the Civil War.

Indeed, influential Democrats sadly concede him some chance if, as they feared, the advanced Democratic liberals in Texas, sulking at their predestined failure to nominate one of their own kind, now go off to support Tower in spitefulness toward his conservative Democratic opponent, William Blakely. But, in any event, Goldwater has already got good mileage out of his support of Tower in Texas. To him has come the most valuable form of credit that can come to a national politician. He has shown that he has the capacity to influence many voters outside his own state.

Making Gains

Too, it is observable here that Goldwater has been making gains generally, quite apart from his success in Texas. He is in unmatched demand as a college speaker. His offices are crowded with well wishers. His autograph is more sought than that of any other senator, not excluding the party leaders.

All this may not mean too much, but undeniably it means enough to warn Nixon to become more active. For the public "image" of Goldwater in the politically critical east—the image of a widely right-wing politician—is being softened into an impression more nearly acceptable to the east.

To be sure, a Republican convention which nominated him in 1964 would have to reverse a long tide. Since Herbert Hoover in 1928 the party has always chosen a man less rather than more conservative than the party's common run. So much a switch remains greatly improbable. It cannot be wholly discounted, however, for the simple reason that Goldwater's purely personal appeal is demonstrably rising.

However "wrong" he may be on issues—and this correspondent for one believes him impractically and excessively conservative — he is increasingly and beyond doubt seen as a "right guy" personally. He is youngish (52), he is personable; he is honest, and he has, inelegantly, "plenty of guts." People tend to like him when they know him, even when they disagree with him. This is no trifling asset in all the maneuvering for position in '64.

Rattlers Get Rattled

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Why do rattlers get rattled?

Fur Coats, Stoles Need Attention

Taking good care of a fur coat is more than just putting it away for the summer. Be sure to have furs repaired and cleaned regularly. If you wear your furs a lot they'll need a yearly cleaning and glazing. Glazing is really like a pressing for it's done with some heat to bring the gloss and sheen back to the fur. It's done by your furrier with great care so the leather won't harden. Cut Down Repairs Even if furs aren't worn often they need to be protected with cold storage for summer. Don't try mothproofing at home with chemicals. Taking good care of furs in daily storage cuts down on yearly repair bills. After you've worn furs in rain or snow shake the fur thoroughly. Then hang in a cool place away from other garments that will crush or mat the fur down. It would be best to keep your furs in an unheated closet at all times if you have one. Heat makes fur brittle. If small rips or worn spots come during the year don't wait for the once-a-year repairing. Try to get them fixed at once. Handle With Care Try to handle your coat to give best wear. This means unfastening your coat when you sit, keeping hands out of pockets and not always carrying your handbag or packages in the same way to rub against the fur. Occasionally brush the fur gently in the direction of the nap. This will give a fresh look and keep fur from matting.

Portraits for Mother's Day

Nobody loves you as dearly as Mother does. Make her happy on Mother's Day (May 14) with the gift she treasures most—a Pechman Portrait of yourself.

Let's EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By Sylvanus M. Duvell, Ph.D. and Evelyn M. Duvell, Ph.D.

1. Teenage girls tend to ignore good grooming!

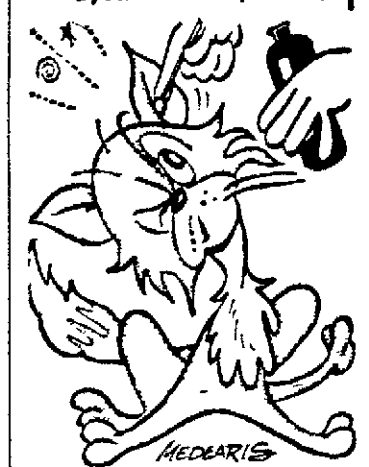

True—False—
Considering what teenage girls spend annually on grooming aids, we'd say false. They spend $20 million a year on lipstick, $25 million on deodorants (one-fifth of the total sold) and $9 million on home permanents. The American girl becomes interested in grooming from an early age. By the time she gets well into the teen years, she's usually able to look a vision when she wants to. She

PET DOCTOR

By A. W. Moller, D.V.M.

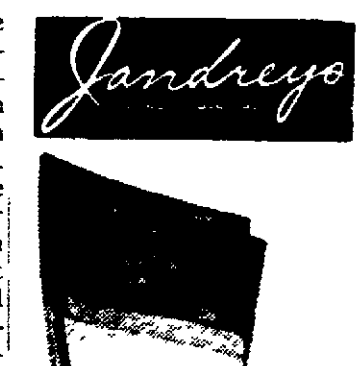

Q. Our six-month old cat has ear mites. We clean his ears out with oil but have had no success. Will he ever be rid of them? Mrs. D. Fink, Oceanside, N.Y.

A. Ear mites, the most common ear infection in cats, are not difficult to treat if the right medicine is used. Oil—of any kind—will not kill mites. The ear usually contains both mites, which medicine will kill and eggs, which are not affected by the medicine. Therefore, to be successful, the treatment must be continued over a three or four-week period in order to destroy each mite as it hatches from the egg. Be careful to use only ear mite medicine designed specifically for cats, as felines are very sensitive to many pharmaceutical products. Since re-infection is quite common, make sure your cat is alone and does not come in contact with other cats or dogs infected with mites.

looks a sight when she doesn't care. For a closer look at the world of teenagers, read the booklet, "What Teenagers Should Know About Life and Love." A copy's yours for 20 cents and a stamped, return envelope sent to this column, in care of this paper.

2. Do people become more religious as they get older?

Yes—No—
No, a five year study at the University of Michigan discovered. Judged by church attendance, interest in religion seems to decline somewhat. Women attend church most regularly after 40, but this attendance does not increase with their years. Men attend less often as they become older, with the exception of Negro Protestants, who attend more often as they become older. Jewish services are attended more often by older people, but this supposedly reflects a loss of interest among the young, rather than an increased interest of the old.

Even when your trump suit is so weak that you cannot afford to draw trumps, give some thought to the other side of the coin. It may be even worse to leave the trumps alone.

wound up with a minus score. Those who tackled the trumps early made nine tricks. One popular but ineffective way of playing the hand was to take the first club, run three diamonds to discard a club, and then lead the singleton spade from dummy. This allowed East to rise with the spades and give West a diamond ruff. West returned a club and was in position to over-ruff declarer on a club lead by East later on. The defenders got one spade and four trump tricks.

Lead Spade Early
The best line of play for South is to lead the singleton spade from dummy as early as possible. If East wins and returns a club, there is still time to cash the top diamonds and get rid of a club.

Now, however, declarer must

Martyn Green Marries Model

NORWALK, Conn. (AP)—Actor Martyn Green, 61, has been married to New York model Yvonne Shaveau, 39.

It was the third marriage for the British actor, noted for his roles in Gilbert and Sullivan operettas, and the second for Miss Shaveau.

They were married in a simple ceremony Sunday at the United Congregational Church of Rowayton.

Green lost a leg more than a year ago. It had to be amputated when it became caught between an elevator and a wall in New York.

lead a trump from dummy. It's unlikely that the defenders will be able to draw three rounds of trumps. What's more, even if they can they may not see the advantage of doing so. South must get at least one round of trumps out of the way to stop the defenders from winning four trump tricks.

As it happens, this round of trumps clears up the play. East wins with the king of trumps and leads a club. South ruffs, and West over-ruffs.

Now West cannot get to his partner's hand for another club lead. When West leads a spade, dummy ruffs and leads another trump. The ace and jack fall together, and South claims the rest of the tricks.

Daily Question
Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes. You hold: S 5 H Q 6 5 4 D A K J 6 C A K 8 5. What do you say?
Answer: Bid two diamonds. You intend to bid the clubs next if partner merely rebids the spades. You would jump to three diamonds if partner opened with one heart, but you cannot afford to suggest a slam with a poor fit for spades and no good suit of your own.

Your Problems

Ann Repeats Belief Nice Girls Don't Visit Bars With No Escort

BY ANN LANDERS
DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am burning with rage. Your crass, unqualified statement that a woman alone at a bar is fair game for a proposition is the most unfair thing you have ever printed.

My husband is a traveling man and I work in a department store. I hate to go straight home after work because it's depressing to look at four walls night after night. I find interesting company in the little bars I frequent.

My moral standards are high and whenever a jerk gets fresh I give him the fish eye and he moves on.

Women are no longer household drudges. We can vote, hold executive positions, and we control most of the country's wealth. We have equal rights and deserve equal privileges.

If a man can go to a bar alone for a little relaxation and not be considered a bum, why can't a woman? — Emancipated Ella

Dear Ella: You can beat your gums from here to maternity about the equality of the sexes, but it's just a phrase, dearie. There are certain things a man can do that a woman can't — if she wishes to be considered a lady. Two that occur to me at the moment are (1) smoke a cigarette on the street and (2) sit in a bar alone.

Your letter proves my point. A lone woman in a bar is looking for company. Just what type of entertainment she desires depends on the woman. But the unattached female who rivets herself to a bar-stool has no cause to feel offended when a man asks her what she has in mind.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am married to a man who clams up when things don't go his way. He sulks in the corner and no amount of humoring helps. It's maddening to see a grown man act so childish.

I will list some of the things that can result in hours of silence and maybe you can help me. (1) The meat was too well done. (2) The meat was not done well for enough. pay off. It's attention he's after, so just ignore him.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I work for a novelty company from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. It was agreed that I was to have half an hour off for lunch. I never get it.

The boss takes an hour and a half and I can't leave the floor when he is gone because I'm alone. He takes the other girl who works here with him. I've tried going in the back room to eat my sandwich (I carry my lunch) but it's useless because so many customers shop during their lunch hour and I am interrupted.

Please don't tell me to quit. I need my job. — Hungry

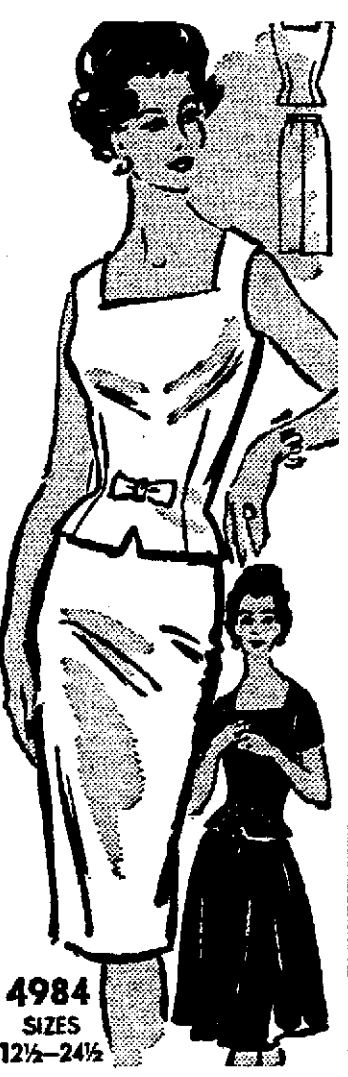

Dear Hungry: Tell your boss that at twelve o'clock sharp you are going to eat your lunch and that if no one is in the store to relieve you you'll open your lunch-bucket and eat in full view of the customers. Then do it.

Are you tempted to smoke because the crowd does? If so, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Teen-age Smoking," enclosing with your request ten cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Patricia Olson was crowned queen and Daniel Roe, King. Crown bearers were Leslie Egner and Marie Buchholz. Other members of the court of honor were Jeanne Rice, Lynn Budberg, Carol Olson, Bill Rindal, Roger Schroeder and John Olson. Today's Etiquette

BY LOUISE DAVIS

MY LAWYER WITH A PROBLEM
A man attorney with an etiquette problem and have been unable to find an answer. Professionally, I use maiden name, which for my client, is Mary Smith. The reason for this is obvious. I am in my second marriage. I notice theatricals and other professional women are referred to as Miss Movie Star, wife of John Doe. I want to solve my name problem in good taste and would appreciate your help in showing the way. In using my professional name, am I "Mrs." or "Miss" Mary Smith? Our local courts in Tennessee state that in giving a maiden name to a divorced person, she must call herself Mrs. instead of Miss. Which is correct, etiquette-wise? Social ly am I Mrs. (or Miss) Smith or Mrs. John Doe? Is it at all correct for me to send Christmas cards in my professional name?

Louise Davis Answers:
You, like many others, consider yourself as two people: your professional self and your private or social self. You obviously began your professional life as Mary Smith and I think you are wise to keep it that way. Your maiden name hasn't been legally restored. It has been adopted which is another reason for talking the license in adopting the Miss too. According to etiquette or social standards, when a divorced woman gets permission from the court to restore her maiden name, she becomes Mrs. Mary Smith. However, most women today will have none of the Mrs. and take it upon themselves to use the Miss. This is a fast growing trend. The basis for this is probably psychological: wishful thinking. They don't want to be reminded that they ever had a husband! Socially you are Mrs. John Doe, for that is your name. You would sign personal letters as Shirley Doe. It would be permissible for you to sign Mary Smith on Christmas cards to clients or to those who know you professionally.

Designing Woman

BY ELIZABETH HILLYER

Simply Tailored, Definitely Decorative
Here's a way to create the effect of decorative panelling for a window with no view — without having complete, separate panels made. If the glass must sometimes be uncovered, sliding panels or screen-type cover-ups must be especially constructed to fit and installed to operate, but if the glass can always be covered, try this simpler project. Rice paper in an attractive design is glued directly to the glass, and light wood strips fit over it. Translucent papers found in art supply and hobby stores often imbed grasses and leaves as this one does, suggesting oriental design. Use white glue with typical rice paper and apply it to the entire surface of the glass, then press the paper onto it. Make a separate wood strip structure to fit into the framing of the glass. Slot the center strip to hold the cross pieces, stain the wood and attach the structure to the paper-covered glass with sparing glue applications. Spray the completed window lightly with colorless lacquer to make it easy to clean.

It can be quite beige, almost beige with a pink cast, which will create a different effect than the coral you have, and is a better shade to relate the room colors.
Mrs. D.D. "I've just thought of a plan to use three bamboo blinds we have as a sun shield for our enclosed side porch. The blinds would be rolled up most of the time just under the porch ceiling, but can such blinds, bought for indoor use, stand even this semi-protected outdoor exposure. Is there a way to waterproof them?"
The blind usually called a bamboo blind is made of the outside peel of the bamboo or rattan plant, so the strips have one surface that is naturally waterproof. An over-all preservative is needed, however, because of the other surfaces of the strips and the

Here's to You, MISS TEEN~ a guide to good grooming and poise

BY MARY SUE MILLER
Are you giving your hair the prescribed care? Have you followed all the instructions we gave in our last column for hair health and beauty? Then, and not before, your hair is ready for styling. I'd wager that up to now you have fussed more over the question of how to wear your hair than any other appearance problem.

Sixth of Series

Own up: How often have you stood before a mirror turning a curl this way and that, in the hope of finding some marvel of flattery?

Ideal arrangements are based on a formula—one that is rather more complicated than 1 plus 1 equals 2, but quite as precise. The formula is this:

1. A hair style must be proportioned to your figure. You will see why if you picture a tiny teen with a bushy mop of hair. It's a case where the tail wags the dog, wouldn't you say?

2. A hair style should create an oval of your face, since oval contours are judged the most pleasing to the eye. One example will show you how the principle works: Should a girl with a square face wear a boxy pageboy, she would look like a square for curl this way and that, in the hope of finding some marvel of flattery?

3. A style must be detailed so as to minimize any negative features.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain—without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by a doctor's observations. Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place. And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where a doctor's observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug counters.

ture—the one you could do without.

Never let a line in your hairdo repeat the line of the undesirable feature. Only a contrast in lines can soften a feature.

4. A style must be easy to manage. Any "do" that is difficult to care for has three strikes on it from the start. It requires incessant combing and curling, and that's a nuisance. Between times it looks progressively tackier.

Oval Face

For ages 16-17: A cap of tumble curls to give an oval contour to the head; a fairly short length to break the length of the face; slanted bangs to soften the chin.

To dress, set the curls on rollers and turn the rollers under—toward the face in front, toward the neck in back; always comb curls in a downward direction, too. For manageability, the hair should be cut in layers 2½ to 3 inches long.

For ages 13-15: Basically, this is the same as above. So follow the directions given above. Then band your hair with a ribbon. Arrange the ribbon to fall across the top of your bangs, but under the side and back hair.

Square Face

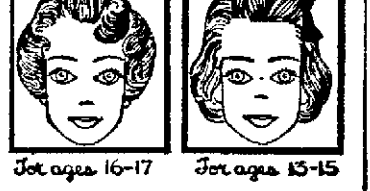

For ages 16-17: A cap of sleek curls that curves every angle in the face through clever detailing—height over the forehead, width at the sides, ear-top length, and side part.

To dress, set in pin curls; turn curls upward over the forehead; turn the rest downward. Comb the hair over your hand. For easy upkeep, the hair should be 5 inches long.

For ages 13-15: A classic bob, with individual flattery achieved by three stratagems—a high line over the brow, a side part, a clean sweep at the temples, and a fluff of curls at the jawline.

To dress, pinch a high wave into the hair over the brow and pin it in place; at the temples, sweep the hair diagonally upward and secure with side combs; turn the ends under on rollers. The hair should be tapered, 9 to 12 inches, and combed in the direction of the set.

Round Face

For ages 16-17: To slenderize the face, a study in contrasts—Smooth sweeps for narrowing the face, feather-curls for lengthening it.

"Women's Changing Roles" was the topic of Mrs. Arthur Hepburn, Fremont, at a dinner meeting of Women's Society of Christian Service Thursday at Methodist Church, Neenah. Mrs. Hepburn is a member of the State Board of Missions. She is pictured above with Mrs. M. W. Batterman, president of the local unit of WSCS.

To dress, comb the hair back from the temples and smoothly down on the crown. Pin-set the curls, turning the bangs upward and the ends downward. The style is simple to keep groomed when you brush the smooth sections and flip-comb the curls. The length tapers from 2½ inches around the face to 5½ inches at the center back.

For ages 13-15: A Dutch bob and for squaring the circle, there is nothing like its straight bangs and shoulder fall.

To dress, just brush in a downward direction. If desired, the ends may be curled under on rollers. They must be tapered with a razor so as not to "stubble."

Triangular Face

For ages 16-17: A pony tail, designed with a fluff of bangs so as to cut corners at the brow and chin line.

To dress, part the hair straight across at mid-crown; smooth the back hair, fasten with a barrette and turn the ends under on thick rollers. Pin the bangs in fat curls toward the face. When grooming this style, comb the bangs and brush the rest. The back must never be allowed to grow beyond the nape of the neck. All ends should be trimmed and tapered at four-week intervals. If a pony tail is allowed to grow shaggy, it looks "horsey" tail.

Rectangular Face

For ages 16-17: A halo of tendrils, emphasizing the oval cast of the face.

To dress, set in tight pin curls; wind the curls upward from the left to the right side of the head, from the front to the back.

In grooming, first brush and then flip-comb. Manageability comes from keeping the hair trimmed at about 2½ inches.

For ages 13-15: A distinctive oval frame for a distinctively oval face.

To dress, comb the hair into place, working from the center of the crown in all directions; turn the sides and back up in firm pin curls; finger a wave into the bangs, and fasten with wave clips. To groom, brush the crown back; comb the bangs sideways.

Fashions and You

1. Hair pulled straight back or diagonally up at the temples shortens a long nose and a protruberant one.

2. Diagonal parts are generally the most becoming. A straight, low parting minimizes a square or heavy jaw. A center part is the sole property of an oval face with regular features.

3. Fluffy upswept bangs add height to a low forehead. Cut on the diagonal and combed onto the brow, a bang conceals a too low forehead and "rounds" a pointed chin.

4. When the neck is short, back hair should swish up from the nape. It should fall midway below the nape on a long neck.

5. For a lovely profile, the bulk of the back hair must be arranged higher or lower than the nose—on the crown or on the neck.

SINCE KENNETH KINGERY of Scoughcon, Wisconsin, contracted polio in 1953, he can move his left thumb and two fingers about a quarter-inch, and can move his lips and speak. That is all. He's married, the father of three children aged 10, 13 and 17, and self-employed—a free-lance writer. He's also an active member of the school board and advisor to a Teen-Age recreation group.

• Mr. Kingery, an electrical engineer, some time ago designed, and his son built for him, a gadget, upon which he could rest his left arm and hand. Two tiny micro-switches are built into it—one touching his middle finger, the other his thumb. Wires from these feather-touch switches have been his "lifelines" for seven years. Through them he can operate his tape-recorder, electric page-turner, automatic bed and telephone. And now he can "dial" his own calls.

• Modern direct-dialing (lately introduced in Scoughcon) was what "turned the spotlight" on Kenneth Kingery's intense fortitude and willpower. Our telephone people in the area had planned to continue regular operator service for him. But he wanted to do his own dialing... and that set off a swift "chain reaction."

• Half a dozen persons did as compassionate men and women have done for centuries. They went to work, voluntarily, determined, to make the earnest desire of this man of courage come true. Here's part of his own letter of appreciation:

• "These resourceful telephone people, within a week, devised and installed an arrangement of 'relays,' linked with a pulsating buzzer circuit—and I was ready for dial operation. The result has become my pride and joy. By counting each buzz and flicking my switches at the right points, dialing is a breeze (!) even for one paralyzed from the neck down. I sincerely hope this remote-control mechanism can be made available to other disabled persons.

• "It gives me a powerful sense of independence. And, too, it frees my family from added 'hand-maiden' chores. But most important—it enables me to be useful. I believe that unless a man uses his mind to accomplish something worth-while, he is hardly a man.

• "As a firm believer in free and private enterprise, I've been profoundly impressed by the human qualities—the truly personal interest—of the telephone men and women who have devoted so many hours to help me."

• That's it. You'll agree, we feel sure, that these facts about one man's valiant striving against such odds deserve more than mere folder space in a filing cabinet. For over seventy-eight years, telephone people, mindful of responsibilities to country and community, have tried their best to be helpful. They will keep on trying. And no matter how greatly our business of communications may be changed in the future, it will remain a human, "person-to-person" service. That is why it exists. And the men and women who provide it have no intention of letting science become master instead of servant.

Swan Season Here; Song Birds Return

BY CLARA HUSSONG

Whistling swans, in flocks numbering up to a hundred or so, have been seen on the bay waters. Smaller numbers are seen on the Fox River. How fast they'll build up in numbers until they reach their traditional many thousands depends on the weather.

The latest "dope" on these large white birds, which make long stop-overs here each spring on their way to their Arctic nesting grounds, indicate there are small flocks on the west bay shore area.

Ice still covers the shallow, muddy west shore edges where they usually feed during their stop-overs. Roots of various aquatic plants are their main food, and they flip their long necks down into the water to get at this food. We can't expect them in large numbers, until the ice moves out.

Best Places

Peak's Lake and the area inside Longtail are two of the best places to see swans when the ice is gone. They afford protection from the wind as well as feeding spots. The birds seen now are in the deeper, open parts of the bay, but they cannot feed in such large numbers as they did last year.

From indications now, the high point in the swan migration will be this week. The first week in April is the average time for their Arctic nesting grounds, in high point in the concentration, as I've remarked every year when I write about swans.

If you'd like to look for them, take any road which leads toward Green Bay in the area of Peak's Lake, Longtail and the mouth of the Suamico River. At times they can also be seen from the grounds of the Yacht Club and the Bay-side Pulliam Power Plant.

Early Birds

The early birds which have been seen since March 18 — the first report I had was from a boy who lives near Peak's Lake — are "scouts" looking over the food situation. They probably came from a Lake Winnebago spot near North Pond du Lac, where they concentrate for a while until the bay waters open up. On the lake near Oshkosh is another spot where swans are usually seen each spring.

They wintered in Chesapeake Bay and off the coast of North Carolina, and flew nonstop to Wisconsin. Nowhere else along the coast do they stop off in such large numbers or for such a long period.

Other water birds are becoming numerous too. Mergansers, goldeneyes and mallards can be seen in most waters. The first flocks of Canada geese are heading for the north, and we can expect more in the next month. Coots on the bay, and pied-billed grebes on the river were reported to me. Great blue herons have been reported for more than a week.

Jewelry Stolen From Hammerstein's Widow

NEW YORK (AP)—Dorothy H. Hammerstein, widow of composer Oscar Hammerstein II, was robbed Sunday of jewelry worth about $30,000.

Mrs. Hammerstein was away from her East 49th Street home when thieves broke in and took the jewelry from a clothes closet.

with a rush. They sit in bushes and low trees and sing their beautiful little songs. If they were as colorful as orioles or tanagers, we would regard them more highly because of their melodious voices.

Redwinged blackbirds perch on tree branches in flooded swamps, or on cattail stalks in marshes, and sound out their tinkling notes. Killdeer and meadowlarks sing from the ground in open fields. On home grounds, robins and mourning doves are among the most common bird voices heard. Even winter birds are sounding out now with new spring songs. Listen for the junco's pearly trill, and the mellow warble of the purple Finch.

U. S. Apologizes to Diplomat Denied Service in Restaurant

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department said Sunday night it has apologized to Dr. William Fitzjohn, charge d'affaires of Sierra Leone, who was denied service in a Maryland restaurant about a month ago.

A department spokesman said the Howard Johnson Company, which operates the restaurant near Hagerstown, will be asked to explain what its attitude is toward the serving of Negroes.

And You Think You're Afraid of the Dentist!

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Does the dentist's office frighten you? Well, you're not the only one. Dr. Porter Richmond of Richmond, Ky., here for a meeting of the State Dental Association, told Sunday this story of a woman suffering such fear that "She's been sitting in my waiting room for appointments for four years, but she always get frightened and leaves just before I see her."

Public Employee Group Gets Support of Gov. Nelson

Chief of State Tells Convention Unions Help Community Economy

Delegates to the annual Wisconsin Council of County and Municipal Employees Association State Convention at the Hotel Conway year.

Gov. Gaylord Nelson expounded on two of his favorite subjects Saturday night — education and conservation — and received encouragement in their efforts to promote the welfare of state, county and municipal employees.

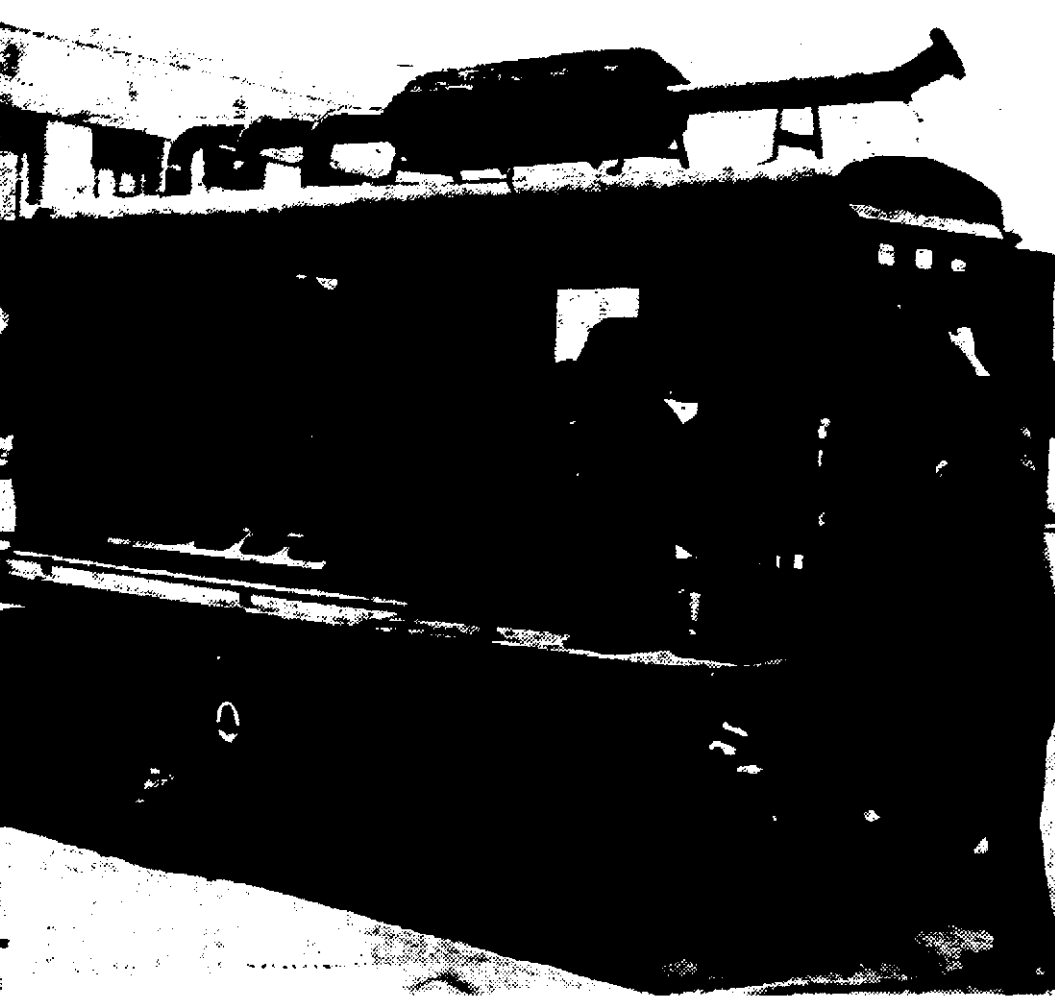

Nelson sympathized with public employees, saying that when a government body wants to economize, the first item to be cut is additional benefits for workers.

He termed the Wagner act, passed in 1935, as one of the most important pieces of legislation of this century. The Wagner act gave employees the right of collective bargaining.

The governor also urged the council to continue its efforts to organize county and municipal employees. A union aids the economy of a community, he said. Where there is no union, the standard of living is poor, he commented.

Students Will Suffer
Speaking on education, Gov. Nelson said that if the senate finance committee does not restore the $18 million it cut from his state building program students will be turned away from our colleges and university in four years. "If we don't build these schools now, it will be our children who won't be able to go to college," he declared.

"We are getting 3,000 more boys and girls in our college each year," Nelson added. This, he said, is the result of the state's investment in education.

Public Workers Group Asks Policy on Political Activity

Three resolutions pertaining to the use of Wisconsin Retirement funds for purchasing right of way political activity of civil service employees, use of state retirement funds and medical care for the aged, were passed Sunday morning by delegates to the annual convention of the Wisconsin Council of County and Municipal Employees Association meeting at the Hotel Conway.

Delegates instructed the executive committee to appoint a committee to make an intensive study of laws which prohibit public employees from engaging in political activity and report back at the 1962 convention.

In the resolution delegates questioned the moral right of any unit of government to tell civil service employees that they must abstain from political activity.

They urged all level governing bodies to develop clear policy statements on rules of political activity.

Support Kennedy Program
Delegates also approved a resolution for adopting a program of medical care for the aged under the social security act and pledged support for President Kennedy's program for medical care for the aged.

Opposition was voiced to a bill now before the legislative highway committee which would per-

Capt. Roman Rappert of the Menasha police department examined remnants of the safe in Badger Oil Corporation's office, 334 DePere St. Up to $1,700 in cash and checks was taken. The masonry chunks in foreground were contained in the door, as fireproofing. The door was hammered by a sharp, heavy instrument to force its corners outward.

The Battered Safe-door from the office of the Pure Oil Co. bulk plant on County Trunk P, Town of Menasha, was examined by Harry Gage, who operates the filling station there. The two parts of the door shell were ripped out by repeated hammering. City and county police think two safecrackings early today are related.

Menasha Man, 73, Killed by Auto

Joseph J. Jedwabny City's First Traffic Fatality Since 1958

MENASHA — Joseph J. Jedwabny, 73, 523 Fifth St., Menasha, was killed about 8:30 p.m. Saturday when struck by a northbound car at Fourth and Racine Streets.

His death was the first in a Menasha city traffic accident since Thanksgiving Day, 1959, and the first pedestrian fatality since 1932.

Eight others died in Wisconsin traffic accidents over the week-end, bringing the toll to 214 since Jan. 1, compared with 171 a year ago. Jedwabny's death was the fifth in Winnebago County traffic this year.

The car which struck Jedwabny was driven by John W. McKinley, 63, route 1, Larsen.

McKinley told Menasha police he did not see Jedwabny until the man was directly in front of the car. He said he was driving about 20 miles an hour.

"I applied my brakes, and the man seemed to fall on the hood of my car. Then I stopped and the man seemed to roll off," McKinley is quoted as saying to police in the accident report. The car's windshield was shattered where Jedwabny's head struck it.

The pedestrian was taken to Theda Clark Memorial Hospital, where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

Walking South
Police said Jedwabny was walking south on Racine Street and crossed at the driveway leading into Menasha Ball Park.

He was born March 3, 1888, in Germany and was brought to Menasha when he was one year old. He retired in 1953 from Menasha Wooden Ware Corp., where he was employed 45 years.

Funeral services will be at 9 a.m. Tuesday at St. John Catholic Church. Friends may call after 3 p.m. today at the Laemmrich Funeral Home. The rosary will be at 8 p.m. today. Burial will be in St. John Cemetery.

Survivors are one daughter, two sons, two sisters and three grandchildren.

Youth Denies Bad Conduct At Hospital

The brother of the young Appleton driver who got a jail term after he led police on a wild chase, then crashed into a tree April 1, was in Municipal Court this morning.

Martin Barth, 21, 733 Spencer St., denied he was disorderly at Kaukauna Memorial Hospital, where he was taken after the crash.

Hospital officials complained to the Outagamie County Sheriff's Office the day after the accident that Marvin Barth was boisterous and abusive to hospital personnel.

Marvin's brother and driver of the speeding car, Robert Barth, 18, admitted six traffic violations Friday. He was sentenced to six months in the Outagamie County jail and fined a total of $390. He faces 124 days more in jail if he doesn't pay.

Marvin was ordered to post a cash bond of $100 or a $200 property bond or stay in jail until his trial June 22. He had not posted the bond at noon today.

Charge Father Of Youthful Train Victim

Green Bay Man Faces Drunken Driving Count

GREEN BAY — The father of 15-year-old Thomas J. Ferrington, who leaped from the family car and was hit and killed by a Chicago and Northwestern Railway passenger train Friday night, was charged today with drunken driving and failing to halt for automatic railroad crossing signals.

The father will be arraigned in Municipal Court on the charges Tuesday morning.

The Ferrington boy was killed after jumping out of the back door of the car at the Liberty Street crossing at 9:17 p. m. Friday. Investigation revealed the boy apparently jumped from the car when he thought the oncoming train was going to hit the car. The boy was run down by the train and tossed 80 feet.

Members of the train crew said the car slowed down as if to stop at the crossing, but then continued across in front of the train.

Funeral services for the Ferrington boy were held this morning.

$150 Taken From Oshkosh Beer Bar

OSHKOSH — About $150 in nickels, dimes and quarters was taken from Dino's Bow Tie, 219 State St., Oshkosh, a beer bar, early Saturday morning.

The money was taken from a cash register, metal box and juke box.

Donald Ziebell, who closed the bar Saturday morning, told police someone may have hidden inside the tavern when it was closed. The doors were still locked and showed no signs of tampering. Police are questioning those known to have been in the bar Friday night and Saturday morning.

Menasha Man Hurt When Car Hits Pole

Hoffman was driving an auto owned by Florence Lamberg, 212 Racine St. The car received extensive damage.

Police Investigate 2 Safecracking Jobs

Petroleum Products Outlets in City, Town of Menasha Burgled

MENASHA — City and Winnebago County police joined this morning to investigate two safecracking, evidently done by the same party. Loot in the two safes could reach $1,700, in cash and checks.

Safes destroyed by hammering at doors and extensive prying were in Badger Oil corporation's office, 334 DePere St., and Pure Oil Co. County Trunk P in the Town of Menasha.

Loss Estimate
A city policeman discovered that the Badger firm's rear door was open as he checked business places at 4:02 a.m. today. A neighbor said he heard a noise about midnight but did not investigate.

The safe, which contained between $1,500 and $1,600 in cash with a sharp-pointed instrument, had been hammered.

Henry Mueller, company secretary, estimated the loss. Taken from the Pure Oil bulk plant office safe was $63.64 in company cash and $35 to $40 in rolled coins, receipts of Harry Gage, who operates the filling station at the plant.

A heavy instrument, believed to have been a sledge hammer, was used on the safe door. The thief or thieves also chiseled and pried at bolts holding the door. One hinge was knocked off. The safecracking and break-in was noticed at 2:55 a.m. by a county patrolman checking the building. A window in a south door was broken to gain entry.

The policeman called Appleton and Menasha police for assistance in case someone still was inside the building. Investigating were Patrolman Robert Burrell, who found the break-in, Sgt. LeRoy Luft and Lt. Richard Guenther, special investigator.

Wrecking Firm Owner Ordered Not to Work Without Insurance

Henry G. Kuhn, owner and operator of Kuhn Enterprises, was permanently enjoined Friday from letting the Workman's Compensation Insurance on his employees lapse. He forfeited $50 to the state for permitting the state required insurance to lapse last Nov. 22.

Kuhn Enterprises is a wrecking firm located at 1010 Grand Ave., Little Chute.

The permanent injunction prohibiting Kuhn to operate without Workman's Compensation was issued after Kuhn admitted operating after the Nov. 22 lapse. The state asked for the injunction.

Under the Municipal Court injunction, Kuhn can be charged with contempt of court if he does not obey the insurance law in the future.

OSC Offers Summer Class In Business

Four Courses In Administration Planned in 8 Weeks

OSHKOSH — The newly-approved business administration major for Oshkosh State College will be launched during the eight-week summer session this year rather than in the fall because of requests from students and business and industrial leaders, Dr. Sherman Gunderson, economics department chairman, said.

Upper-class students wishing to major in business administration will be able "to catch up" through the extended summer offerings in the new professional courses.

For those in business and industry seeking additional background for their work, the concentrated summer session schedule will enable an individual to enroll with a minimum disruption of his normal business schedule, Dr. Gunderson added.

The summer session will run from June 12 to Aug. 4 and will offer four courses including work in accounting, business law, sales and sales organization and in industrial management. All of these courses will be offered mornings five days a week.

Class in Sales

The sales and sales organization course (Business Administration 326) will meet for an hour at 7 a.m. Its content will stress the techniques of planning the sale of various products and on organizing and training a sales force. The course carries three credit hours for those enrolled in a degree program.

A four credit course in accounting (Business Administration 223) will meet from 7 to 10.10 a.m. daily and will be concerned with basic accounting principles and procedures, with variations applicable to individual proprietorship partnerships and corporations.

Business law I (Business Administration 207) will be offered at 10.15 a.m. and will carry three hours of credit. The course will cover early development of business law, contracts, estates and sales.

Industrial Management

A three credit course entitled industrial management (Business Administration 233) will be offered at 8 a.m. It will cover principles of industrial management, layout of equipment and machinery, production scheduling, management organization and trends in solving business problems.

In addition to these, two courses in economics will be offered.

truck about seven miles west of Rhinelander on Highway 8.

Authorities said the accident occurred about 9 p.m. as Lassig was turning left in front of the driveway of his home and the car owned by Allerton's father came over the crest of a hill from the opposite direction.

Allerton, the son of Lee W. Allerton, general manager of radio station WOBT, Rhinelander, died at the hospital about midnight. He and Ray Christian and Don Mikkelson, all 17, were pulled from the flaming auto by nearby residents who heard the crash.

Hehling died in the burning car and Moes was thrown out. Lassig was alone in the truck.

Paul Lewis Diesner, 19, Milwaukee, was killed in a two car crash on Highway 59 near the eastern edge of the Waukesha city limits early Sunday.

Car Hits Tree

Wesley Samsal, 35, Route 2, Plymouth, was killed Saturday when his car veered out of control on Highway 28 west of Sheboygan Falls and rammed into a tree.

James Cobbin, 48, Milwaukee, was killed Sunday night in the collision of two cars at a busy intersection.

Eugene Grams, 40, Delavan, was killed Friday night when his car missed a curve near Delavan and overturned in a ditch along Walworth County Highway O.

Pamela O'Connor, 2, of Fond du Lac, died early this morning of injuries received when the car driven by her father, George, 42, left Highway 23 about 12 miles east of Fond du Lac and struck a guard rail, a post and a tree. The car overturned and landed upright.

Lee E. Lehman, 33, of Milwaukee, died of head and internal injuries suffered early today when the car in which he was riding went out of control and hit a parking meter and a pole on Milwaukee's South Side. Police said Lehman, formerly of Antigo, was riding in a car driven by Mrs. Joan Engel of Milwaukee, who was critically injured.

Post Office To Add 10,000 Regular Workers

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Post Office Department has announced plans to add 10,000 regular employees to its payroll by limiting the hours substitute employees can work.

Substitute workers will be limited to 40 to 44 hours a week, effective July 1, according to an order issued by Postmaster General J. Edward Day. Regular career employees are limited to an 80-hour biweekly paycheck.

Day said some substitutes have been working so many extra hours their paychecks have been double-sized. He called this unfair to the regulars and a hazard to the substitutes' health, an impairment of the department's efficiency, and, in the case of vehicle drivers, a possible safety threat.

Appleton Postmaster Francis Sumnitch said that two workers had already been hired by the post office to handle its portion of the program.

The postmaster said the move was aimed at providing more regular jobs by sharing employment among more persons rather than paying higher salaries to some substitutes. Most of the 10,000 jobs, he said, would be filled from existing civil service registers of job eligibles. In a few communities, he said, it may be necessary to advertise for applicants.

The department estimated that Wisconsin has a potential of 236 new regular jobs.

These are Economics 109, on principles and introductory problems, and Economics 110. These are basic courses for both business administration and economics students.

4 Break-ins In Appleton

Two Buildings Robbed of Coins; One Culprit Seen

Intruders broke into two service stations and two homes in Appleton Sunday.

In two of the entries thieves excited loaded down with coins. In another a homeowner heard the culprit upstairs. As the homeowner was about to call police, the intruder ran through the house and escaped.

A total of 227 dimes and 18 new pennies were taken from the home of Chauncey J. Jorgenson, 1016 Elsie St., between 1 and 5:30 p.m. The thief found two dimes in the living room, 18 pennies in the dining room and the big loot — 225 dimes — in a jar in the bedroom. Much of the house was ransacked.

Filling Station

From the Fernal Service Station, 2007 N. Richmond St., a large-poketed thief took $40 or $45. Except for a few $1 bills, all of it was in pennies.

Lloyd M. Lockin, 918 W. Harris St., told police he was sleeping on the first floor of his home when he heard footsteps on the stairs to the second story. He was about to call police when the intruder ran down the stairs, through the kitchen, and out through the rear door.

The fourth break-in was at the Quality Oil Co., 1544 E. Wisconsin Ave. The cash register had been left open, but apparently nothing was missing. A cabinet directly below the cash register was ransacked. Two windows in the building were broken.

Teen-ager Finds Bodies of Family

GREENWOOD, Miss. (AP) — Teen-aged Jackie Taylor went looking for his parents, a brother and sister when they failed to return from a visit. He found their bodies in a pickup truck overturned in a drainage canal near here.

Drowned were Alf D. Taylor, 40-year-old cotton farmer; his wife Barbara, 39; and their children, Barbara, 15, and 2-month-old Randy.

Jackie, a Greenwood High School senior and football player, is the only survivor in the family. He was treated for shock.

He and a farm hand started a search at dawn yesterday when his family didn't come home from a visit to neighbors.

Sheriff C. E. Cothren said they drowned shortly after leaving the neighbor's home about 9:30 p.m. Saturday during a rain and wind storm.

He said the truck apparently slipped off the wooden runners of a bridge, in Carroll County eight miles northeast of Greenwood, and crashed through the railing.

Draggers Fail To Find Body In Wolf River

Extensive Search During Weekend At Gill's Landing

GILL'S LANDING — Extensive dragging operations Saturday and Sunday failed to recover the body of James Gilkey, 27, Aurora, Ill., who drowned early Saturday morning when the car in which he was a passenger, plunged into the Wolf River.

John F. Marsh Jr., 26, Aurora, the driver, and Neil L. Sanders, 24, Geneva, Ill., another passenger in the small foreign car, escaped and swam to shore.

Sheriff Ray Abrahamson called off the dragging operation at 4:30 p.m. Sunday. Organized dragging operations are scheduled to be resumed Saturday, if the body is not recovered this week by fishermen or others taking part in the search along the river bank.

Organize Dragging — Dragging operations were organized before dawn Saturday. Sanders told Sheriff Abrahamson the river looked like water on the road about 1:30 a.m. Saturday when the car went off a boat launching ramp into the river.

Sheriff Abrahamson commended the Clintonville, New London, Weyauwega and Fremont Fire Departments, county police, Conservation Department and others for their roles in the dragging operations.

Searchers covered an area over one-half mile downstream from where the accident happened. Three airplanes also were used in the hopes of sighting the body from the air.

The planes were furnished by the State Forestry department, the Wisconsin Conservation Department and Clyde Weatherbee, Wau-paca.

the time we spend here depends on the preservation of our resources," he said. Nelson said that Wisconsin was the most "blessed" state in the union.

Conservation Needed

He hit at critics of his proposed 10-year conservation program which would cost $50-million and be paid for with a one-cent tax on cigarettes. "Unless we move now, in 10 years these assets will be destroyed," Nelson said.

"We don't want our children to speak of us as we do of our ancestors who cut Wisconsin's timber," Nelson added.

He said the state was losing 750 acres of wetlands per county each year through lack of conservation. He also said he had asked one million dollars in funds to be matched by cities for development of parks in areas outside of present city limits that will soon be urbanized.

Deputy State Atty. Gen. Nathan S. Heffernan, who addressed the convention Saturday afternoon, advocated passage of a bill, now pending, which would authorize the Wisconsin Employment Relations Board to conduct representation elections to find out which collective bargaining units state and municipal employees want to join.

Law Is Confusing

The bill also would provide for a fact-finding procedure in the event municipalities and their employees were unable to settle labor disputes.

Heffernan said that although 1959 legislation authorized municipal employees to negotiate with their employers, the failure to provide for certification of bargaining units or legislation to implement the rights granted by the legislature had created confusion.

He stated that the object of the new legislation was to insure municipal employees treatment substantially equal to what employees of private concerns have without jeopardizing continuity of public services.

Two Chicago Persons Hurt In Collision

Passenger in Truck Hospitalized After Vehicle Goes in Ditch

NEENAH — Two North Chicago persons were injured in a two-car crash at 4:23 p.m. Sunday on U. S. 45, south of Larsen Road.

Mrs. John G. Darland, 49, received abrasions to her forehead and right knee and is listed in good condition at Theda Clark Memorial Hospital. Her husband, 55, was treated for cuts and released.

Investigating officers said Harold L. Block, 37, 480 Nicolet Blvd., Menasha, was northbound on U.S. 45 and apparently tried to make a left turn into a driveway and collided with Darland's southbound car. Block made the turn because a tractor ahead of his auto had stopped, police said.

Passenger Hospitalized
David Gerhardt, 26, State 114, Neenah, a passenger in the pickup truck driven by Dale L. Case, 25, 149 Curtiss Ave., Neenah, was hospitalized at Neenah after the vehicle went into a ditch on U.S. 45 at Gillingham Corners in the Town of Clayton at 10:36 p.m. Saturday.

Gerhardt received multiple abrasions of the head and left leg and an arm injury.

Winnebago County police reported the truck's right wheels went off to the soft shoulder, pulling the vehicle into the ditch where it knocked down a highway sign and hit a tree, tearing off the right front wheel. Gerhardt's head struck the windshield, shattering the glass.

Cuts Knee
John F. Sweet, 20, 830 Grand St., Oshkosh, was taken to Mercy Hospital by a passing motorist for treatment of a right knee cut in an accident on State 110 near Riverside Cemetery in Oshkosh at 6:52 p.m. Sunday.

He was a passenger in the car of Lee C. Penzenstadler, 30, 21 W. South Park Ave., Oshkosh. Gears in the car's steering mechanism had broken so Penzenstadler was unable to control the vehicle while rounding a curve. Forty feet of cemetery fence were damaged when struck by the car.

Three Oshkosh residents were taken to Mercy Hospital after a two-car accident on Oregon Street at W. Sixth Avenue at 5:32 p.m. Saturday. Hospitalized were Mrs. Carol J. Bowers, 420 Mt. Vernon St., a driver, her husband Cary, 23, and daughter Tina Marie, 2½. Her car and one driven by Emmett H. Farmer, 64, 1317 Jackson St., collided when she was making a left turn onto Oregon Street.

Kimberly Trackmen Surprise, Retain Title In Madison Relays

Appleton Places Seventh in Class A With 12 Points

Tom Rooyackers paced Kimberly High School to a successful defense of its Class B championship in the Madison West relays Saturday.

Kimberly, which wasn't rated among the top contenders because the brilliant Darrell Jansen (1960 pacemaker) had been graduated, tied Marshfield for the top spot with 27 points.

Appleton came home seventh in Class A, with 12 points. Neenah scored two points in Class A.

Rooyackers won the broad jump with a leap of 21 feet, 6 inches. (He had placed second in the event last year). Tom placed second in the 70-yard low hurdles—behind Marshfield's Chuck Aslakson.

Rooyackers also anchored the winning 180-yard high hurdles shuttle relay effort. The win, in 24.3 seconds, was good for 10 points. Ron Polishinski and Bill Tummers rounded out the winning unit. The latter pair had teamed with Jansen to win the event last year.

Kimberly's Mike Cattanach placed second in the high jump (tied with Salem Central's Jim Hofer at 5-8). The Papermakers' Tom Roovers tied for fourth in the high jump (also 5-8 but with more misses).

Kimberly's Dave Manley raced home third in the low hurdles.

Appleton's points came from two third-place finishes in point-rich relays. The sprint medley team placed second in its section and third over-all with a time of 3:49.5. Running on the team were Wayne Polzin, Dick Bunn, Bill Weber and Jim Hill.

The same unit ran the 880-yard relay, except for Pete Kafura's replacing Weber. The Terrors won their section in 1:35.8 but placed third over-all.

Neenah's Dave Burton placed fourth in the high jump with an effort of 5-11.

Madison West failed to win a first but piled up 29 points to top the Class A title. Sheboygan South was second with 22.

Fondy '9' Posts Pair of Wins Over Zephyrs

Opens FRV League Play With 5-2, 5-4 Verdicts

FOND DU LAC—The St. Mary Zephyrs opened the 1961 Fox River Valley Conference baseball season by suffering two setbacks at the hands of Fond du Lac 5-2 and 5-4.

A 5-run outburst in the second inning spelled defeat for St. Mary in the first game. The Fondy team put together two hits, three walks, a wild pitch, and an error for their five runs.

The Zephyrs scored single runs in the first and fifth. Singles by Bill Starr, Bill Becker, and Pete Snyder accounted for the first run and Paul Meier's single and Starr's double produced the second marker.

A bases-loaded single won the nightcap for Fondy. The winners scored two in the first and another pair in the fourth to take a 4-0 lead but the Zephyrs tallied three in the fifth and one in the seventh to tie the count.

Paul Mix's double, Starr's single, Jim Koerner's single, a fielder's choice, a stolen base accounted for the three markers in the fifth and Phil Keller's single drove in the tying marker in the seventh.

Wins Game

Ken Wilderman won the game for Fondy after Chuck Brunau singled, Jerry Floyd walked, and Bill Koenen was safe on an error. Wilderman had four for eight in the doubleheader.

Bill Becker held the Cardinals to four hits in the opener, striking out 18 and walking five. Carl Schmidt was the Fondy pitcher. He allowed eight hits.

Prange Squeeze Bunt, 5-Hitter Nip Waupaca

Loser Dick Brown Allows 4 Safeties In 8-Inning Tilt

WAUPACA — A squeeze bunt by winning pitcher Bill Prange scored the winning run for the Menasha Bluejays here Saturday afternoon in a 3-2 non-conference win over the Waupaca Comets.

The winning run was scored in the extra eighth inning. Prange laid down the bunt which was placed well enough to score Bill Neubauer from third. Neubauer bled, stole second base and went to third on a ground ball.

Waupaca opened the scoring in the bottom of the first inning with Steve Spiegler doubling and scoring on a single by Tom Dickinson.

Ties Score

Menasha tied the score in the third inning when Neubauer, with two outs, went to first on a fielder's choice and stole second. He rounded third and went in for the run on an error.

40,000 May See Tilt in Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Milwaukee Braves and the St. Louis Cardinals, a couple of pennant-conscious rivals who wound up in a battle for the bridesmaid role last fall, kick off the 1961 National League season Tuesday in County Stadium.

Southpaw Warren Spahn, the Braves' pitching wonder, who will be 40 later this month, will oppose the Cards' Ernie Broglio, a comparative youngster at 25, in a duel of the major leagues only 21-game winners last year.

Spahn, whose 21-10 record in 1960 included the first no-hitter of his brilliant career, needs only 12 more victories to reach the charmed 300 mark. He has won 20 games or more in 11 seasons, a major league record for left-handers.

The Braves, who edged St. Louis for second place behind Pittsburgh last season, will put on display their prized second base combination of Frank Bolling and Roy McMillan, both acquired in off-season trades.

Major Change

The only other major change in the Milwaukee lineup will be in center, where Johnny Demerit, a former $100,000 bonus grab, will get the opening day nod.

St. Louis Manager Solly Hemus is expected to stick with the lineup which carried the Cards to an 86-68 record last season. That means Curt Flood probably will be in center with Spahn on the mound. Rookie Don Landrum, a fine prospect, may start against right-handed pitching when the season gets underway.

Still one of the key men in the Cards' flag hopes is Stan (The Man) Musial, an all-time great who has appeared in 100 or more games for 18 years.

Given a break in the weather, the Braves expect a turnout of some 40,000.

Davey Moore KO's Valdez In 1 Round

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Featherweight champion Davey Moore, having disposed of young Danny Valdez in one round and now fresh out of 126-pound foes in this country, said today he would like to fight lightweight champion Joe Brown.

The Springfield, Ohio, sharpshooter belted 21-year-old Valdez of Los Angeles out in 2 minutes 48 seconds Saturday night.

Valdez was the only American rated in the top 10 in the division. Manager Willie Ketchum and Moore agreed that the aging Brown might not care to risk his more valuable crown against Davey. But they also agreed such a match, preferably here or in Brown's home town of Houston, Tex., offers the best money in sight.

AL's Revolutionary 10-Team Experiment Gets Underway

FRV Baseball League To be 7-Club Circuit

Green Bay Admitted; Elect Gene Kloes League President

FREEDOM — Operation of a seven-team league for the 1961 season was approved by representatives of Fox Valley Amateur Baseball League squads at a meeting here Sunday.

With the seven teams, the circuit will have one more entry than last year. Green Bay and Fond du Lac are new teams in the league and Appleton Valley Fair withdrew.

Green Bay was admitted to the league Sunday. Jim Rathburn represented the team and indicated that home games will be played either at the old Bluejay park or Bay Beach park.

Team Withdraws

Valley Fair withdrew after former manager Gene Kloes explained that no practice field was available for the team. He said that last season the squad started ed play after only two practice sessions and he did not want to go through the same experience again. He cited use of Goodland Field by the Fox Cities Foxes and American Legion teams also as a factor in the decision to withdraw.

The seven teams entered are Harrison, Menasha Macs, Freedom, Little Chute-Kimberly, Kaukauna, Fond du Lac and Green Bay.

Kloes was elected league president to fill out the slate of officers for the season. Tom Nylis of Kaukauna was reelected vice president, with Frank Warner, Appleton, secretary-treasurer and Frank Chalupa, umpire-in-chief.

Open May 21

Play will open May 21, and the schedule will be split into two rounds. At the end of the regular schedule there will be a playoff between the first and second half champions.

One Sunday, in mid-season, will be held open for an all-star game and there will be two night games on the schedule, one in each half of play.

These are the opening day pairings. Menasha at Freedom, Little Chute-Kimberly at Green Bay and Kaukauna at Harrison. Fond du Lac drew the opening bye.

Team managers include: Carl Springer; Menasha; Don Gosz.

Rain Washes Out Palmer's 34; Player Four Ahead

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Chasty challenger Gary Player and crusty defending champion Arnold Palmer face a delayed final go for the Masters golf title today after a rainstorm drowned Sunday's scheduled last round.

The entire 41-player field must start over again but based on Sunday's canceled activity, Player's four-stroke lead may fold under Palmer pressure.

When the lightning-etched, bloated skies spilled a waterfall on Augusta National course, Player held only a two-stroke lead over Palmer at 65 and 63 holes respectively.

Ten Players Finished

At that point no other contender had a chance for the estimated $20,000 top prize, although 10 players already had completed 72 holes, led by Mike Souchak and Dick Mayer with 2915.

The forecast envisioned partly cloudy, windy weather with temperatures reaching the high 60s. The par 36-36-72, 6,980-yard course drains well, so Player and Palmer, whose birdie-birdie finish carved his second Masters' triumph last year, could wind up in a tight finish.

Player, who starts 30 minutes ahead of Palmer, could find himself in the same sad situation as Ken Venturi last year. Venturi finished with an apparent title-clinching 23. One stroke down with two holes to go, Palmer bagged birdies on the 17th and 18th and won with 282.

Most Chagrin

Between South Africa's Player, seeking to become the first foreign player to win the Masters, and Palmer, the most chagrin over the cancellation came from Palmer. "I was getting the breaks and on the move," he said.

Palmer had wrapped up a 2-under-par 34 on the first nine, while Player—turning the first nine in 35—had floundered to a bogey on the flooded 11th green when play was called.

Palmer conceded there was no other choice than to cancel the round with the 10th, 11th, 15th and 16th greens under water.

Running Out of Time

"They were running out of time and nothing else could be done," said Palmer. "But that front nine 34 I had looked very good. I knew I had bogeyed No. 11 and I felt I had some sort of a chance. I'd rather be two strokes behind with time to play than four with 18."

Player estimated the cancellation was worth one-half stroke to him, although maybe it was "50-50 whether it helped or hurt my chances."

Kewaunee Bowlers Take Second Place In Women's Tourney

MADISON (AP)—Crabbe's Market of Kewaunee rolled 1,904 Sunday and moved into second place among Class E teams at the Wisconsin women's bowling tournament.

Other weekend changes: Teams: Class B - 2, Midtown Lanes, Racine, 2,887; D-4, Jewel Motors, Milwaukee, 2,044.

Kimberly Superintendent of Schools, Announced Today That Genzmer's Appointment Has Been Approved by the Board of Education. Genzmer, a Native of Mayville, Was Chosen From About 75 Applicants.

Master's Degree

Gil Frank, who resigned from the Kimberly cage job after the 1960-1 season, came to Kimberly from Adams-Friendship High 10 years ago and posted an outstanding record.

Genzmer, who has received a master's degree in physical education from the University of Wisconsin, will teach social studies, physical education and driver education at Kimberly. Genzmer played basketball at Mayville High and was a member of the UW varsity for two seasons although he failed to earn a letter. While attending the UW, he assisted in coaching at Monona Grove and Wisconsin High.

The new Papermaker coach is married and the father of two children.

Milwaukeean Rolls 300 Line In TV Match

Fred Praefke Also Takes Lead in State All-Events

FOND DU LAC (AP) — Fred Praefke of Milwaukee collected 1,930 pins Saturday night and moved into first place in regular all-events of the Wisconsin bowling tournament.

He continued his hot pace Sunday in Milwaukee with a perfect 300 game in a televised bowling series, for a 738 total.

In other weekend activity here Robert Wilson, also of Milwaukee, rolled 1,871 for fifth spot in all-events and paired with Larry Greenwood to take over second place in doubles with 1,278.

Ed Fritsch of Sheboygan had 682 for third place in singles. Anton Kalk and Willard Reinke of Kohler moved to the top in minor doubles with 1,243 while David Barrette and Harry Knauf of Wisconsin Rapids tied for fourth with 1,220.

Praefke won a new car and other prizes for his perfect game. He also won his televised match (WTMJ - TV) against Art Kraemer, who had 245-237-245-727.

Eddie Sachs Cops 100-Mile Race At Trenton Track

TRENTON, N. J. (AP) — Eddie Sachs today is the king of championship auto racing at the Trenton Speedway.

Sachs, a veteran 33-year-old driver from Center Valley, Pa., opened the USAC speedway circuit with a smashing victory Sunday. The Pennsylvania tavern owner brought his Dean Van Line special to an easy win in 1 hour, 48.17 seconds over the 100-mile distance.

Traveling at an average speed of 96.679 m.p.h., Sachs, the number one starter at the 1960 Indianapolis "500", grabbed the lead on the 31st lap and breezed home the winner almost a full lap ahead of Jim Hurtubise of North Tonawanda, N. Y.

Oshkosh Team Jars 1,103 Line

DETROIT (AP) — Ed's Cities Service team of Oshkosh shot an 1,103 game in the American Bowling Congress yesterday, highest in any division of the 37-day old tournament. The team shot a 2,955 after a 916 start to achieve the best regular division score of the day.

Wings, Hawks Will Resume Series Tonight

CHICAGO (AP) — Detroit's patched up Red Wings hope to gain the upper hand against the Chicago Black Hawks tonight in their "score first and win" Stanley Cup playoff series.

The team which has scored first also has won in the championship showdown which is tied at one game each and resumes in Chicago Stadium tonight.

Boistered by their 3-1 triumph over the Hawks in Detroit Saturday night, the Red Wings realize they must win in Chicago if they hope to grab the cup because Chicago has the advantage of playing four games at home if the best-of-seven series goes the distance.

Both Make Trip

Goalie Terry Sawchuk and defenseman Marcel Pronovost both made the trip to Chicago with the Red Wings Sunday night. Sawchuk who injured his shoulder in the first period of the first game which Chicago won 3-2, is ready but might not start since Hank Bassen has filled in brilliantly.

Pronovost has an injured ankle and probably will not be used. The Hawks, somewhat befuddled by Detroit's run-and-shoot tactics, hope to regain the class and power they displayed in the first period of the opening game when they scored three goals and then hung on for the triumph.

Fraser Top Seed In River Oaks Tennis Tourney

HOUSTON (AP) — Five of the top 10 amateur tennis players in the world will be in action here starting Tuesday in the 27th River Oaks tennis tournament.

A total of 64 young players, most of them from colleges and universities in the southwest, played 48 matches today for 16 places opposite the 16 players who are exempt from a qualifying round.

The five stars in the tournament include Neale Fraser, Australia's No. 1 ranked player, and Bernard Bartzen, America's top-ranked amateur.

The foreign stars have the advantage in this year's tourney. Three of the top four seedings went to Australians Fraser, Rod Laver and Roy Emerson. Three other foreign countries are represented by their leading players.

tackles the job of restoring peace and serenity in San Francisco. Vedic Himsi finds himself the current No. 1 man of a 9-man coaching staff at Chicago and Mickey Vernon takes over the reins of a hand-me-down outfit in Washington.

Billy Rigney, fired by the Giants last June, tries again with the Los Angeles Angels; Joe Gordon, who stepped down at Detroit, rejoins General Manager Frank Lane at Kansas City; and Bob Scheffing, who accomplished the feat of bringing the Cubs home in fifth place several years ago, succeeds Gordon in Detroit.

The National League race promises to be the more grueling of the two. National League managers, sizing up the race, envision every club in the running but Cincinnati, Chicago and Philadelphia. In the American, Baltimore, Chicago and Cleveland are rated a chance to dethrone the Yankees.

The Yankees are strong, fleet, sure-handed and replete with good hitters. They have good front-line pitching. Their weak spots are a thin bench and sub-par second-line pitching. Also Houk, although he has shown himself to be a cool, calm and capable leader, must prove himself a replacement for Stengel.

Young Stars

Baltimore has young and fast developing stars with the strongest and deepest pitching staff in the league. The Orioles should be better because of last year's experience when they nearly beat the Yankees. Their biggest weakness is in the outfield where the punch is missing.

Chicago led the league in hitting, fielding and stolen bases last year. Blame for their drop from first to third was laid on the pitchers who began to show signs of aging. The addition of Cal McLish and the improvement of Herb Score could lift the pitching but age is creeping up on such non-pitching front-liners as Minnie Minoso, Al Smith, Nellie Fox and Sherm Lollar, too.

Cleveland helped its pitching by acquiring southpaw Johnny Antonelli and gained a power hitter in outfielder Willie Kirkland. Lack of a capable relief pitcher, and reserve outfielders and a second string catcher are the weak spots.

In the National League, Pittsburgh is pretty much in the same position as the Yankees in the American. The Pirates have good first-line pitching, defense and balanced hitting but, they lack second-line pitching and a strong bench. They also could use more power.

Milwaukee has explosive power in the middle of the batting order (Henry Aaron, Ed Mathews and Joe Adcock) and a more solid infield because of the addition of Roy McMillan and Frank Bolling at short and second. The Braves, however, helped themselves at the expense of their outfield and pitching. Don McMahon must prove he can furnish the necessary bullpen help.

The Los Angeles Dodgers are rich in young talent, strong on the mound and plentiful on the bench. They have tremendous maneuverability. The main weakness is lack of power and a first rate catcher.

St. Louis has good pitching, a great relief pitcher in Lindy McDaniel, a sound infield and fair catching. The Cards' trouble is in the outfield, which is old and slow. They don't have a proven big league center fielder and Stan Musial must prove his 40 years are not too much a burden.

San Francisco has Willie Mays, baseball's No. 1 star, and other good hitters in Orlando Cepeda, Harvey Kuenn and Felipe Alou. The Giants have good front-line pitching and a pair of promising rookies in infielder Charlie Hiller and catcher Tom Haller. They need bullpen and catching help. Willie McCovey at first base must come through at the plate.

Kennedy, Ike Golf Match Could be Close

By DILLON GRAHAM WASHINGTON (AP) — Who would win in a golf match, President Kennedy or former President Dwight D. Eisenhower?

It would be close, a golfer who has played with both said today. That's because, he said, Eisenhower has played more golf in recent years than has Kennedy, who has far more potential as a golfer.

"If Kennedy played as frequently as did Eisenhower there'd be no contest," he said.

The golfer who made the comparison asked to remain anonymous. But he said that Kennedy, with practice, could shoot in the 70s.

No Reporters

Reporters never have been permitted to watch either Kennedy or Eisenhower on the golf course. Occasionally, they were permitted to watch Eisenhower off the first.

Janesville Kegler Takes Second in Bowling Tourney

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP) — Gwen Cook of Janesville, Wis., took over second place Sunday night in the all-events division of the Women's International Bowling Congress tourney.

Miss Cook had a 1,655 to trail Lila Lambert of Indianapolis with 1,725.

Delores Fix of Madison, Wis., was tied for third in singles on a 577 and Ethel Post and Miss Cook were in the No. 2 spot for doubles with 1,100.

William Hoy, 98, to Toss Out First Ball at Cincinnati

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds and the Chicago Cubs' Cincinnati, who, at the age of 98, is don't figure to go anywhere in the oldest living major league National League pennant race this baseball player, will throw out the year, but they open the 1961 sea-first ball.

Except for the Reds' infield, the figures to be few changes in the lineups from last year. The Cubs, in addition, will be expected to have Billy Williams, a .323 hitter from Houston, of the Texas League, in right field.

Rookie At Second

If rookie Jim Baumer, sidelined with an injured arm, is able to play, the Reds probably will have him at second, with Eddie Kasko at short and Gene Freese at third.

If Baumer still is out, it may be Kasko at second and Chico Cardenas at short, or Kasko at short and Elio Chacon at second.

Also in question is the Reds' right-fielder—it may be either veteran Gus Bell or Wally Post.

Glen Hobbie is expected to be the starting Cubs pitcher against Cincinnati's young Jim O'Toole.

2 Wisconsin Fighters Win AAU Crowns

Christopherson and Caldwell Win in National Tourney

POCATELLO Idaho (AP) — Two Wisconsin fighters captured championships and a third settled for runnerup honors Saturday night in the windup of the National AAU boxing tournament.

Bob Christopherson, a University of Wisconsin student from Minneapolis, won the 178-pound title, while James Caldwell of Shawano took the 139-pound crown. Walt Marchner of Madison was beaten in the 165-pound finals.

Christopherson, a standout on the UW team until the Badgers dropped boxing as an intercollegiate sport, easily outpointed Don Rouse of Pocatello, while Caldwell won every round in outclassing Norm Williams of Toledo, Ohio.

KOs Romero

Marchner knocked out Gene Romero of Lafayette, La., in the second round of their semifinal. However, the Wisconsin brawler was unable to land his big punch in the final round and dropped a decision to Lotus Martin of Toledo, who retained his National AAU championship.

Jim Morton of Madison was outpointed in the 132-pound in the semifinals by Woody Marcus of Idaho State College, who went on to win the championship by stopping his opponent in the finals.

Wisconsin's AAU representatives finished third in team scoring with 16 points. The Oregon AAU took the title with 23 points followed by the combined Utah-Idaho team with 20.

Wins St. John Tourney

Manitowoc '5' Edges St. Mary in Finals

MENASHA — Four charity losses in the final seconds of play gave the Bobbies of Manitowoc a 67-66 win over Laemmrich Funeral Home (St. Mary) for the championship in the St. John Holy Name Open Senior Basketball Tournament at the St. John Gym.

After trailing from the middle of the second quarter, Al Zipperer put Manitowoc into the lead, 65-64, with two free throws with 25 seconds left. Paul Meany then sank two more charity tosses with six seconds left. Jim Koerner sank a consolation basket for St. Mary as the game ended.

Teitz Insurance of Menasha defeated Damen Insurance of De Pere, 81-55, for the consolation title. In Sunday afternoon's semifinal battles, St. Mary defeated Menasha, 58-54, and Manitowoc beat Damen Insurance, 60-58.

Meany Tops Scorers

Paul Meany, Manitowoc's big center, led all scorers in the championship contest with 22 points. Bill Becker paced St. Mary with 21.

St. Mary caught fire midway in the first period, after trailing 13-2, and finally caught their bigger rivals with 3-25 left in the half, taking a 29-28 lead.

Laemmrich's built up an eight point margin, 53-45, late in the third quarter but then blew several opportunities to put the game on ice.

Gus Laemmrich Missed on a one-and-one free throw situation with 12 seconds left with Meany pulling down the rebound. Two St. Mary passes went astray in the final minute, leading to Manitowoc baskets each time.

Ristau Hits 25

Dave Ristau poured through 25 points to pace Menasha in the consolation contest. Menasha jumped off to a 22-14 lead in the first quarter against Damen Insurance and was never threatened.

Meany and Bill Becker were picked as the most valuable players of the tournament.

The remainder of the 12-man all-tournament squad included Al Zipperer and Tom Pollock of Manitowoc, Dave Ristau, Bill Prange and John Matowitz of Menasha; Tony Rechner, Jim Koerner and Gus Laemmrich of St. Mary, and Pat Collins and Roy Clumppner of Damen Insurance.

Reformatory Plan Gets Tentative OK

But Juneau County Officials Expected to Protest to Nelson

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON—High state government officials have tentatively approved establishing a temporary state reformatory branch on the grounds of Camp Williams, state militia training camp in Juneau County, but there may be a hitch in plans.

Juneau County officials have asked for a meeting with Gov. Nelson to discuss the matter and reportedly are prepared to protest.

The nature of their objections has not been made known, but one report is that they are worried that the U. S. air force, which finances the Wisconsin Air National Guard training exercises there, may not like housing prisoners in such close proximity.

Economic Loss
Transfer of the air guard training maneuvers would be a severe economic loss to the area it is felt.

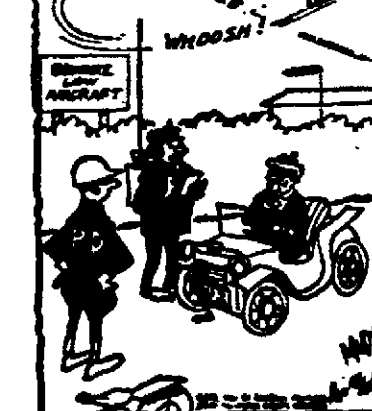

The state welfare department has urgently asked for temporary quarters for some of the inmates at the maximum security corrections institution near Green Bay to relieve critical crowding there, and has warned that there is no prospect that the flow of inmates to the reformatory will decline soon.

Has Authority
Wilbur Schmidt of the department and others have assumed that Gov. Nelson, as head of the state militia, has the authority to grant permission for the use of some of the idle barracks at Camp Williams.

Sen. W. A. Draheim of Neenah, chairman of the board of state government operations, has assured Schmidt that the board will grant emergency funds to adapt camp facilities for reformatory use. Reformatory work crews would be used this spring to hold down cost.

An informal session with Gov. Nelson Tuesday brought Schmidt assurance of the approval of the Camp Williams project, but the governor evidently planned to hear the Juneau County delegation before making an announcement.

WIAA Will Follow National Alliance Basketball Rules

STEVENS POINT (AP)—The Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic Association is going to employ National Alliance basketball rules on a trial basis in the 1961-62 season. The WIAA Board of Control Saturday voted to follow the recommendation of its rules committee and try out National Alliance rules on a complete basis for the first time.

The changes adopted include observance of the three-second rule for an offensive player in the free throw lane area, three minute overtime periods to a game decision, starting second and fourth quarters with a jump ball, and giving the ball out of bounds to the defensive team on an offensive foul.

The Board of Control voted to discontinue sponsorship of the state high school ski meet because of a lack of participation. In other action, the board in-

Woman Waits Sentencing For Extortion

MADISON (AP) — Mrs. Marie Richter, a 43-year-old Blue River farm wife charged with attempting to extort money from a man her husband killed, today awaited sentencing on the Circuit Court conviction.

Mrs. Richter's attorney, Darrell MacIntyre, indicated that he would attempt to have the verdict set aside and ask for a new trial. A jury of 10 women and two men deliberated an hour and a half Saturday before reaching a verdict.

Extorts Money
Mrs. Richter was charged with attempting to extort money from Charles F. Kalish, 48, a McFarland farmer shot to death last October in a struggle with her husband.

Sylvester Richter, 48, is serving a four-year term in the state prison on a conviction of homicide by reckless conduct.

Testimony at the trial of Mrs. Richter dated back to events of 1939 when the Richter and Kalish families were neighbors. She testified she had been intimate with Kalish on four occasions, that her reason for doing so was Kalish's threats against her and her husband.

Wrote Letters
The extortion charge against Mrs. Richter involved three letters she admitted writing to Kalish demanding $500 to keep her husband from reporting that Kalish had raped her. Mrs. Richter said her husband forced her to write the letters.

At the time Mrs. Kalish and her husband were arrested, she told authorities that her husband killed Kalish because she lied and said Kalish had assaulted her 22 years ago.

Chisox Have Chance For Speedy Getaway

Meet Angels and Nats in 7 of First 14 Games

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Chicago White Sox have an opportunity to get off to a quick lead in the American League pennant race, but Manager Al Lopez doesn't want his club to be lulled into any false sense of security.

The Sox open the season against the new Washington Senators today, and in their first 14 games they meet the Senators and Los Angeles Angels — another new league member—seven times.

In the other seven games, the Sox face Cleveland three times and play four against Boston, a team which finished next to last in 1960.

"Sure it would be great to get off to a good start," says Lopez, "but don't sell these new teams short. We met Washington in exhibition games, and they can be tough."

"By the end of the season, both Washington and Los Angeles will probably be in the second division, but that doesn't mean they can't get hot and knock off any club two or three times in a series," said Lopez.

The White Sox, considering themselves strong contenders for the pennant, were snuffed out of their final exhibition game against the Cubs in Chicago Sunday, and Lopez welcomed the day off.

35-Degree Weather Greets Team

Dressen Tags 'if' on Prediction For Braves Taking 1961 Pennant

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Manager Charlie Dressen brought his Milwaukee Braves home Sunday — with an "if" prediction on taking the National League pennant in 1961.

"I think we can win, if the bullpen comes through and nothing happens to key players like Warren Spahn, Lew Burdette, Hank Aaron and Del Crandall," Dressen said, pulling up his top coat collar in the 35 degree weather.

The Braves ended their spring season Sunday with a rainout at Louisville, Ky., against the Cincinnati Reds. The training season closed with a 12-15 record for the Braves, plus a five-game losing streak.

Five Good Innings

"If Don McMahon can do what he did two days ago when he pitched five good innings against the Reds," Dressen said, "then we'll go all the way. But he has to win two out of three relief appearances, instead of losing two out of three the way he did last season."

However, even with his cautious statements regarding the relief staff, Dressen indicated he thinks it is much stronger than it was a year ago.

Should Win 45

Dressen predicted that Spahn will win more than 20 games this year.

"Between Spahn and Burdette we should win 45 games," Dressen said. "Bob Buhl should win at least 16 and I expect Don Nottbart and Carl Willey are capable of winning 15 apiece and that makes 91."

Dressen said the 91 victories "could be enough to take the pennant if the other teams in the league get around to chopping their heads off."

Spahn looks better now than he did last spring, Dressen said, "I been able to hit him at all.

"His control is better and that's because he doesn't have the knee trouble he had last spring," Dressen said.

Dressen said his double play combination of Roy McMillan and Frank Bolling is just about the best in the league. "They made three double plays when Spahn and Burdette beat the White Sox 1-0," Dressen said. "It was something to see—rapid fire."

Celtics on Verge Of Another Title

Belt Hawks, 119-104, to Take 3-1 Lead; Fifth Tilt Tuesday

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — The Boston Celtics, just one game from another pro basketball crown, have their "best team — ever" and one reason is the club's only rookie, Tom (Satch) Sanders.

Bob Cousy, the Celtics great backliner in his 11th season, put it this way: "This is the best basketball team ever assembled. We didn't have Sanders and (Jungle Jim) Loscutoff in the playoffs last year. The Jones boys (Sam and K.C.) are better."

"Now we have a great bench — and that makes this our best club."

Boston is on the verge of its fourth National Basketball Association title in five years.

Sanders hit 10 of 14 shots and scored 22 points — the same number as Cousy — as the Celtics belted St. Louis 119-104 Sunday on the Hawks home court. Bob Pettit had 40 points for St. Louis, but little help.

Was Dubious
Boston Coach Red Auerbach admits he was somewhat dubious about Sanders when he signed the New York University star last summer, largely on the recommendation of St. John's Coach Joe Lapchick.

"He was wearing glasses and those old-time knee guards," Red said. "He weaved his shoulders like the (Harlem) Globetrotters do — I told him to stop that right now. He was a good pivot man but never shot from more than 20 feet out. He didn't pass the ball — he squirted it."

"I told him to get contact lenses right away and keep wearing 'em — and to get rid of those knee guards."

Sanders now has an 11-point average for the St. Louis series, no better than seventh on the deep Celtic team. But he's shooting a sizzling .559 from the field against St. Louis and .514 including the Eastern final with Syracuse. This tops the team for playoff action.

"He has the confidence now," Cousy said. "Satch always had a fine touch but this is never enough if you don't have the confidence."

Oil Space Heater Explodes to Recess Leeman School Classes

LEEMAN — Pupils at Leeman school had an extra holiday today when it was discovered the oil burning heater had exploded during the weekend, destroying the unit and filling the school with soot and smoke.

Apparently the overflow valve had become plugged and spontaneous combustion had occurred.

Classes were dismissed when the mishap was discovered about 9 a.m. However, the youngsters will be back in their places Tuesday and classes will continue without heat until the space heater can be replaced.

Mollie, Fibber McGee Achieved Fame With Gentle, Clean Humor

Folksy Couple of Wistful Vista Amused Millions in Radio Show

ENCINO, CALIF. (AP) — Jim and Marian Jordan, known to millions as Mollie and Fibber McGee of the mythical town of Wistful Vista, never changed their format of clean, gentle humor throughout their long years of radio popularity.

Mollie, or Mrs. Jordan, died April 7 of cancer to end both a stage and marriage partnership that started back before World War I. It was Mollie who once explained: "We don't like—I mean people don't like—humor that suggests anything repulsive."

The couple also refused to use mother-in-law gags — "Because we liked each other's mothers, I guess we're sentimental." Closed forever now is the McGees' fantastically cluttered closet. Whenever McGee opened it — at least once a show — hundreds of articles spilled thunderously on to the floor — a sure laugh from coast to coast.

Molly's tart, quavery rebuke, "Tain't funny, McGee," became a national expression. Her portrayal of the precocious little girl next-door who flabbergasted the McGees with impossible questions brought chuckles to many.

Although among radio's top entertainers, the Jordans never made it on TV. The show was attempted on TV with another cast — but failed.

To many fans, it seemed their quiet jokes, the whimsical residents of Wistful Vista and their bulging closet could only be appreciated by the ear and the imagination. Somehow their humor got lost in the cavernous clutter of a TV set.

The Jordans started as a vaudeville team before World War I. Molly (few thought of her as Marian) was a piano teacher in Peoria, Ill., and Jordan, a wholesale drug clerk earning $8 a week. They said it was love at first sight — and they married in 1918.

Between vaudeville dates in the midwest, they picked up $10 an appearance for an occasional radio show.

Their Fame Starts

In 1931, they met Don Quinn, a struggling radio writer, and together they developed a new comedy radio show, "Smackout" — featuring a grocery store "smackout" of just about everything. Their folksy humor developed into the "McGee" format — a bragging suburbanite householder and his long-suffering, skeptical wife. The series started in 1935 and ran nearly 20 years — achieving a top rating throughout radio's heyday.

The show moved from Chicago to Hollywood in 1939. The couple made three movies: "Heavenly Days," "Look Who's Laughing" and "Here We Go Again."

One of the Best loved couples in radio were Jim and Marian Jordan as Fibber McGee and Mollie of the mythical town of Wistful Vista. All the years they charmed audiences, they insisted on keeping their humor. Mollie, who would have been 63 this week, scripts wholesome and relied on gentle wit and died April 7 of cancer in their Encino, Calif., home where they had been in semi-retirement in recent years. This photo of the couple was taken in 1954.

Advances Best In Three Weeks On N. Y. Exchange

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 1.40 at 245.50 with industrials up 2.90, rails up .10 and utilities up .50.

The Dow Jones industrial average was topping its historic closing high of 685.47 reached Jan. 5, 1960.

Coppers spurred in response to reports that the 29-cent-a-pound price for refined copper may be raised soon. As reports came of rising demand for steel, the major steel stock advanced.

Chemicals, oils, tobaccos and utilities were among the gainers. Aircrafts were easy. Motors turned mixed after making early gains.

Gains of most key stocks ran from about fractions to about 2 points but some did better. Union Carbide spurring about 4.

Youth Drives Car Into Train; Leaves Scene

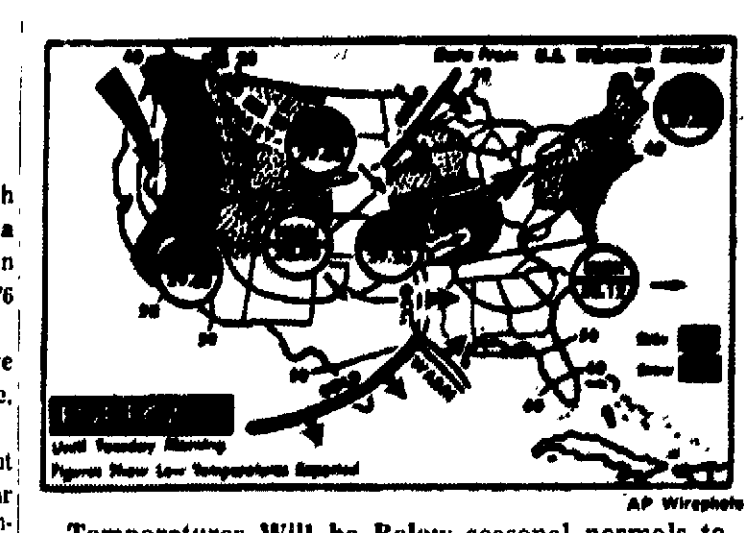

Daniel A. Rindt, 18, 168 N. 12th St., Clintonville, crashed into a Chicago and North Western freight train at the State 176 crossing at 8:30 p.m. Saturday.

He left his car with the front end badly damaged in the Bear Creek ball park and went to Clintonville, where police found him at 9:08 p.m. Saturday.

The freight was southbound and Rindt drove his auto into one of the freight cars. Rindt told police that he did not see the train until he was "on top of it." He said his car was "going 15 miles an hour" at the time of the crash.

Civil War Took Heavy Toll of Men From Oshkosh During Bull Run

OSHKOSH—There were 99 men. They were raggle-taggle and ill equipped, these young volunteers, but as time wore on they were to become terrible in war.

They moved from Camp Randall, Madison, to the nation's capital which was then scarcely more than a glorified village. But it was alive with troops came in throngs to meet the provincial soldiers, assembling, and with sharpers and connivers who the hard-drinking mumpkins from a thousand small towns of the young nation.

Drunk soldiers prowled the streets and rioting brawls were commonplace. The small contingent from Oshkosh, like other members of the raw militia, was unused to discipline and their inexperienced officers were ill-inclined to dispense it.

Troops were quartered everywhere—in cloistered buildings, in empty lots and fields, in nearby forests. The Oshkosh group was assigned to encamp at Meridian

Thus it was that the little company from Oshkosh, now designated Company E of the 2nd Wisconsin Infantry Regiment, was ordered to move out. They were in company with some 29,000 troops so badly trained that most of them did not even know their own commanders.

For three days the Oshkosh company lay in bivouac. Then, on the night of July 20, they were ordered to prepare two days' rations. At 2 a.m. the following morning they slung their blankets, shouldered their arms and put their rations in their haversacks. They moved out into the first major battle of the Civil War—Bull Run. The date was July 21, 1861.

General McDowell had never commanded a large body of men in the field but he knew that the raw, half-trained troops in his command were not ready for battle. But the nation was young, and the North was strong in its unrealistic assurance that right makes might. Thus the people of the North coined a cry—"On to Richmond!"

McDowell felt he had to move because the cry was insistent.

A British writer for the London Times termed it "a cowardly rout—a miserable, causeless panic."

The battle earned a nickname for General Thomas Jackson: "Stonewall".

In the Oshkosh group, there was no disgrace. "We thought we were withdrawing to regroup," said one of the militiamen. "We didn't know we were retreating."

The Union Army lost 2,800 men killed, wounded, captured or missing. The Confederate Army lost about 2,000.

But for Oshkosh, there were no longer 99 men.

Killed in Action

John Barton was dead, killed in action. A bullet was driven into his brain as he waded across Bull Run.

Lotridge Firmin lost his right leg and was taken prisoner. Two months later he would die in a Confederate prison.

Corporal Walker S. Rouse, of Oshkosh, was wounded but he would live to be wounded again next month at the Battle of Gainesville, only to die by wounds suffered at Gettysburg two years later.

Louis Schinz was wounded and so was Prosper Stimson, Augustus Clark, Sylvester Pitcher, Horace Stroud, Charles Graves, Steven Graham, William Holland, Jonas Leach, Harvey McDaniels, Reuben Ash, John Encking, Sebastian Osterday and N. H. Whittemore.

Graves, Encking, Pitcher and Stimson were taken prisoner.

The little group from Oshkosh had been cut from 99 effective men to 82. They were given replacements, and some prisoners were to be returned. But the Oshkosh men had learned much and they now knew, as the nation did, that the differences between the North and the South had now been changed from a rebellion to a major Civil War.

That night at camp, there was much silence as the young militiamen thought of their friends and thought, also, of themselves and of how easily death can come in war. The lights from the camp fires flickered on fewer faces than it had yesterday. The thought was sobering.

But there was much more ahead for this group from Oshkosh. Fate was to lead them into many ugly adventures and many more of them would die.

They could not have known it, but they were to fight again at Gainesville, South Mountain, Atietam, in a variety of skirmishes and, at last, at Gettysburg.

Fate would swing a mighty fist elsewhere too, upon the Oshkosh men.

A few months after Bull Run, for example, James Van Scoik, a popular member of the group whose heavy dialect was the source of much fun, was to be marching on the drill field when a recruit would toy with a rifle and accidentally fire a shot into the happy Hollander. He died ignominiously, on a drill field.

Detached Duty

And when a handful of Company E soldiers were put on detached duty to serve on the union gunboat, Mound City, on the White River, a lucky shot from a Confederate gun would strike the ship in the heart and cause an explosion.

Dead from that explosion were three more Oshkosh men—George Abrams, Giles Carpenter and James Dougherty.

U. S. Stockholders Hit All Time High

BY SYLVIA PORTER

Not ever in the history of our nation (or of any other) have so many individuals been in the stock market as on this April 10, 1961, — a fact which makes it vitally important to all of us to know who they are, why they are investing and how.

There are at least 15 million individual stockholders in our country today, far more than double America's shareowning population as recently as 1936, a full 74 per cent higher than the count as recently as 1952. The growth in stockownership recently has been at an unprecedented pace and while it won't be until June that the New York Stock Exchange will undertake its fourth nationwide census of shareowners, preliminary soundings already suggest the 15 million estimate easily could be conservative.

Stock prices are marching upward under the spur of the heaviest volume of trading in years. Transactions on the big board alone are now running 5 million to 7 million shares a day and trading volume is 60 per cent ahead of this time a year ago. Trading in unlisted stocks and on other major exchanges is up even more.

Sudden Spurt

The sudden spurt in trading and the sharp price fluctuations in response to recommendations in stock market letters are understandably alarming responsible brokers who fear a speculative blow-off. Fears are mounting that "Joe" and "Aunt Jane" again are trying to get-rich-quick with the rent and supper money. And for the second time in two years, Exchange President Keith Funston last week issued a sharp warning to the public against reckless speculation.

To get some answers to the who, why and how questions prompted by the above items, I've been querying representative financial firms throughout the country. The answers are in most part reassuring, in many ways surprising, in some aspects disturbing. Specifically:

Middle Income

Today's stockholders are overwhelmingly middle to upper-middle income families and an increasing number might be called, according to one astute broker, "a new breed of semi-professionals." They are not pros in the sense that a top-notch market analyst is, but they are more aware than previous generations of the risks involved, more informed about basic fundamentals of speculating an investing. Most are investing savings newly accumulated or drawn from other mediums and brokers in city after city report margin transactions (borrowing to buy stocks) are under control. "Joe" and "Aunt Jane" in short are way in the minority.

Well over half of today's stockholders are women, and I'll wager that the next census will show women shareowners outnumber men by a perceptibly larger margin than 1959's 52.5 to 47.5 per cent.

They are young, with first-time stockholders in their early '30s, and the average age of all stockholders in the late '40s.

All Over Country

They not only come from all over the country — and other cities are fast catching up with New York in stockownership — but they also, in the words of another broker, "are entering the market from either side of the political fence." Some are investing because they think that under this administration, the economy will move into a new cycle of strong, sound expansion and stocks will be fundamentally more valuable.

Others are buying because they fear the Kennedy administration's spending programs will restimulate inflation and they're seeking protection for their dollars through stocks. Continued this broker, "People who violently disagree politically have been getting into the 'Kennedy market' simultaneously for entirely different reasons."

Few Exceptions

With comparatively few exceptions, today's stockholders still are of "comforting quality." No one even attempts to deny, though, that there is a lot of "froth" in today's market and there is gnawing uncertainty whether regulations over both brokers and buyers are adequate.

If the irresponsible fringe elements could be curbed, this might indeed be a "new era in stock investing." Certainly, there never has been an investor akin to today's middle-income, semi-professional who is trying earnestly to invest his or her excess savings for the long-term.

Wisconsin and Its Neighbors

Argument about the rate of the state's economic growth rolls on interminably, in the legislature, in the partisan forums of the state press. It has become crystal clear that whatever illumination is contributed to the discussion, it won't come from the politicians and especially the Democrats in the legislature who are obviously more interested in accusations and back-biting than they are in examining the facts to see what they may suggest about Wisconsin's future.

Thus it may be well to turn to the professional statisticians, including Prof. Marshall of the University of Wisconsin department of rural sociology, who has just published another in a series of analyses of the federal census data on Wisconsin as available thus far.

Prof. Marshall has singled out in a current study the change in the population of Wisconsin during the last decade as it was attributable to "net migration", and has made comparisons with the experiences of surrounding states.

"Net migration" is the change in the population total exclusive of that which is accounted for by the excess of births over deaths.

Here are the relevant facts: In the country as a whole there was a "net migration" gain of 2.2 per cent during the 1950-60 decade.

In Illinois, which is commonly regarded as the chief competitor of Wisconsin for industrial location, there was a comparable gain of 1.6 per cent during the decade. In Michigan, also an increasingly industrialized neighbor, the gain was 3 per cent. In two other neighboring states there was a migration loss, in Minnesota amounting to 3.1 per cent, in Iowa to 8.8 per cent.

And in Wisconsin there was a loss, amounting to 1.4 per cent.

As Prof. Marshall notes, the migration factor can properly be identified as measuring the progress of a state's industrialization. It is perfectly plain that Wisconsin is not competing with Iowa, a primarily agricultural state, for economic growth of an industrial type. Minnesota also is a negligible competitor, realistically considered. Those states that are real competitors of Wisconsin have shown substantial migration gains. Wisconsin shows a significant migration loss. The 1.4 per cent amounts to about 50,000 persons. Migrants tend to be young people, in the prime of their productive, taxpaying lives. Had Wisconsin not lost the 50,000, its state tax deficit problem at Madison might not now be so severe.

While the figures are not conclusive, they do make it appear that Wisconsin, Minnesota and Iowa are contributing to the populations of Illinois, Michigan and other industrial states. Many of the contributions are of young people trained in the schools, universities and trade classes of their native states who must leave home to find jobs. This is a process which tends to impoverish the contributing states and to enrich the states receiving the trained workers.

However, Wisconsin must be credited with a high degree of industrialization and urbanization because it was able to hold 15.7 per cent of its natural population-increase. It never would be able to do this if it had not developed jobs for many of its young people. Wisconsin has not yet found a way to produce jobs for all of its young people. That is one of the problems now before the legislature. Real prosperity will come when we are able to find jobs for all of our own young people and also to capture and hold some of the capable young people of other states.

Aurora Elects a New Mayor

The city of Aurora, Ill., which has appeared in the news frequently during the past four years, has elected a new mayor and may be expected to be heard from less frequently in the future.

Paul Egan, who has become widely known as Aurora's mayor, received only 6,994 votes last Tuesday as against 15,177 for his successor. The new mayor is J. L. Hunter, 69, real estate man and a retired high school principal. We have no word on Mr. Hunter's political activities or his tendencies toward front page news but it is quite safe to assume that things will be different in Aurora in the future.

It may be recalled that Mayor Egan did some remarkable things during his term. He created quite a sensation on one occasion by appointing a blond female publicist as chief of police. On another occasion he named a female wrestler as sergeant at arms and as his personal bodyguard. His favorite pastime was firing city officials but his most frequent choice for the ax was the chief of police. He fired eight chiefs in four years.

Chicago newspapers have been complaining that Mayor Egan gave the city of Aurora bad publicity. From this distance it's a little difficult to think of anything that could be bad publicity for Aurora but it must be admitted there is a feeling of relief among the city's population that Paul is stepping down. Attorney Donald Puckett, a former president of the Aurora Chamber of Commerce, said that Egan was the cause of turmoil in the community and made it difficult for everybody to co-operate and get things done.

It is quite generally conceded that Mr. Egan lost his bid for a third term when he "made efforts to contact Khrushchev in Russia and Castro in Cuba." It seems there are some things good citizens of Aurora just won't stand for.

Too Much and Too Late

Last fall Congress approved the request of the Eisenhower Administration for $100 million for relief in Chile following the widespread damage caused by earthquakes and tidal waves there. This spring President Kennedy asked Congress to appropriate the money. But now Chilean authorities are having trouble trying to decide how to spend the cash.

The rubble has been cleaned up, there is no unemployment in the damaged area, transportation has been restored, emergency housing set up, credits have been granted to restore factories and other industries. Both Chilean and United States observers concede that they would have a hard time at present finding projects in the area worth $100 million although the damage had been set at $400 million.

The alternative is to use the funds for general efforts to raise economic standards in Chile particularly in the southern area where the damage occurred. But the Chilean Development Corporation and Central Bank authorities fear inflation if all that money is used in one area. Chile is one of the most prosperous of the Latin American nations, partly because of extensive natural resources, but also because it has had a history of stable political institutions and advanced social legislation.

Money earmarked for Latin American aid has strings attached to ensure progressive programs and co-operation among the recipient governments. Peru, for instance, is having considerable trouble trying to get intelligent land reform legislation through its own political bodies so as to qualify for United States grants and loans.

But the paradox is that a country like Chile, which has made strenuous and successful efforts to help itself, actually may not need the money we offer. Perhaps a little more study into the earthquake area was warranted before the special fund was voted. Or Congress could have rewarded Chile with the money to be used in land reform or industrial areas. But cash for such purposes does not carry the emotional impact of emergency grants for disaster help.

Looking Backward

Tempo Quickens Toward War

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for the week of April 13, 1861.

We give you a few items from the seat of what will soon be war, if we judge by the tenor of the news.

The Pawnee sailed yesterday south under sealed orders from Norfolk. The Pocahontas also. At Washington, five companies marched to the War Department and took the oath.

About 2,000 men will arrive off Charleston tomorrow under the command of Lt. Col. Harvey Brown. They are reinforcements for Fort Sumter.

A dispatch from Charleston states that a floating battery (Confederate) now is in position commanding the guns of Sumter. Federal steamers are expected momentarily. The city is filling up with troops and 1,000 additional men have been sent to various southern fortifications. (Fort Moultrie and battery on Morris Island)

Word April 10 has been received that Wigfall, Chestnut, Mears, McGowan and Boylan have been appointed to the staff of Gen. Beauregard (Confederate).

25 YEARS AGO
Monday, April 6, 1936

The house ways and means committee was urged by Rep. Patman to scrap its tax program while the treasury holds gold which might be used as a basis for issuing new currency to meet government expenses.

The War Department registered opposition to the Norris bill to set up a Mississippi Valley Authority to carry out flood control, irrigation, navigation and power projects in the vast Mississippi basin.

W. E. Robinson was installed as senior counselor of the council of United Commercial Travelers and Mrs. Jack Cornell as president of the auxiliary at a joint installation ceremony.

10 YEARS AGO
Monday, April 9, 1951
President Truman called top industry, labor and farm leaders to the White House to help him map out a more effective inflation control system. That was understood to be the main point Mr. Truman wanted to discuss at his first meeting that afternoon with the newly-named mobilization advisory board.

Chinese Communists opened the floodgates of the massive Hwachon reservoir dam in central Korea and sent thousands of tons of water rushing down on Allied-held ground.

Mrs. Florian Heinrich was to be chairman of a program on "The City Church in a Christian Community" when the Women's Society of World Service met Wednesday.

Delton A. Roehm, Appleton, a junior at the University of Wisconsin, was elected to the UW chapter of Beta Gamma Sigma, national honorary society to encourage and reward scholarship and accomplishment in the field of business studies.

Art of Legislative Debate Lost; Sessions Become Dull

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — Day after day the visitors' galleries in the state legislature these days are empty. Except for the occasional high school class visiting Madison for a social studies field day, or relatives of legislators who came to town for some shopping, the attendants hired to show visitors to their seats are twiddling their thumbs and the only representatives of the public on hand are the reporters in the press gallery.

Wyngaard

A couple of old timers were discussing this curious vacuum the other day and wondering about the cause. There was a time when the galleries were well attended. There was a time when a considerable number of persons, politicians and ordinary citizens, would drop by to listen to debates.

The word "debates", thought one of the old hands, provides a probable key to the public indifference of today. The art of debate is a lost one. If the Wisconsin legislature of today and for some years past is representative.

HARANGUES
A day in the state senate last week might have been typical of the degeneration of political argument among these men who are among the leading state politicians of their times. Members indulged in the most irrelevant and tiresome harangues that have been heard in the chamber for a long time. Moreover, the proceedings supposedly had been prepared in advance. It might therefore have been supposed, by anyone trained in the old school of political debate, that something that was planned might have called for some preparation by the participants.

Yet if these men were prepared, with one or two exceptions, they would not have passed muster in a freshman high school class.

Often these harangues are prepared for purposes of harvest publicity. But the authors apparently are oblivious to the fact that some of the exhibitions promptly empty the press rows. If not a single reporter out of perhaps a dozen assigned to the legislature is paying the slightest attention, the most unimaginative politician might suspect that his chances of getting into print next day are negligible.

THEATRICALS

The temptations in legislative life are many. There are in the current legislature many men who don't get opportunities to make speeches in their own communities. The liberal rules are sometimes irresistible. Nor is there any tendency to change them.

Yet it must be fairly evident to anyone who watches the legislature for a couple of months—including the most impetuous newcomer—that the men of influence are those who are spurring of speechmaking and who, when they arise to make a speech, are careful to have something to say.

Name the men in either house of the Wisconsin legislature who can influence votes and they are men who speak carefully, with preparation, with forethought, and with reason and calmness. Name the lightweights and in almost every instance they are the ones who are using up time because they are entranced with their own voices, given to childish heckling of their opponents or those who may disagree with

Hike Income Tax, Cut Property Levy

Editor, Post-Crescent:

A sales tax has been introduced in the Wisconsin Legislature. Wisconsin is a great farm state. Therefore farmers should know, that a sales tax hits them harder than almost any other group. The average size farm has a gross income of about $7,000, but a farmer must spend around $5,000 for machinery, feed, fertilizer, and equipment, so his net income is around $2,000 or less. He will pay no income tax on this, because of his exemptions. But, with a 3 per cent sales tax he will pay about $150 tax. I have a farm in Jefferson County. My farm friends do not like this additional tax burden during these difficult times. It is hard enough for them now. These Jefferson County farmers do much of their buying in Watertown. In talking with the business men, we find they do not like a sales tax, because of the bother it will make for them, and the cost of collecting such a tax. It is a nuisance, they say.

And how about the retired teachers, widows, and other low income groups, living on small annuities, and pensions of $40 to $75 per month? They pay no income tax now, and they should not. They need every penny just to exist, not to speak of real living. Why should these people be required to pay $20 to $30

People's Forum

Two Thoughts About U. S. Aid to Schools

Editor, Post-Crescent:

I am writing a reply to the article written by F.H.F. plugging federal aid to parochial schools. I wonder if he read the article written by Walter Lippmann in the March 16 Post-Crescent, Page D 3, which gives one a look at the other side of the picture.

Mr. Lippmann writes if the private schools (parochial) were supported by the taxpayer the parent who sends his child to the public school would be paying twice—once to support the public school his child attends and once to support the private (parochial) schools which his child does not attend. What if Protestants, rather than pay for parochial schools, decided to build Protestant schools getting federal aid. Public school children are practically all from Protestant faith families so there would probably be no public schools.

As about two-thirds of the Christian population in the United States is Protestant (Protestant children are not counted as members of the church until they are confirmed, usually when they are eighth graders, whereas all Roman Catholic babies and children are counted as members) wouldn't F.H.F. be paying taxes to help support Protestant schools instead of public schools?

Please, let's keep the division of Church and State and live in love and peace as God taught us thru Jesus Christ.

closed at the end of this term that by September the educators combined with forces that could be made available would provide a means of educating our children.

Why do we have parochial schools? What kind of a democracy would we have if all religious bodies had their separate schools? I support public schools because I believe in them. If others are not satisfied let them provide schools of their own.

Often we fool ourselves into believing that religion can be taught. True, theology, interpretation of Scripture, and dogma can be taught but religion is caught. We consider the United States a Christian country, Christianity acknowledges God as Lord of all, but too often in our living we act as if man is God. And we can teach all the theology, interpretation, and dogma that we want to teach but each of us knows privately whether we are simply going through the forms of religion or really living what we profess.

I do not find favor with any federal aid for public schools. That should be a matter for each state to handle for itself. Wisconsin has a very good school system. But we pay taxes. Why should we pay more taxes to improve the schools in other states where the schools are inadequate simply because people are spared high taxes?

Here's Way To Show Best Side of Youth

From The Ladysmith News

At a recent youth development planning meeting, the charge was made that newspapers — with The Ladysmith News specifically mentioned — print all the "bad" news about young folks, and ignore the "good" things they do. Similar charges are made quite frequently.

So we'd like to challenge them to "put up, or shut up," as the saying goes. The editor will pay anyone one dollar for every column inch of "bad" youth news in our paper during 1960, if he will pay us only ten cents for every column inch of "good" youth news.

That's a 10-to-1 ratio, which would be a good profit, even if the "bad" and "good" news were evenly balanced. If there is more "bad" news, you'll really come out. Even if the "good" news has a 9-to-1 ratio, you'll still be ahead. Any takers? Not only that, we would challenge anyone on the same basis for any of the weekly newspapers which come across our desk. And we'd trade dollar for dollar on that basis, even in the dailies of northern Wisconsin.

It has always been our suspicion that these folks feel that way because the "bad" news is what they most avidly devour and remember.

No Tax Cut, Not Ever; Just Talk, Talk, Talk

From The Mobile Register

Walter W. Heller, President Kennedy's top economic adviser, says "the odds are not very strongly in favor of a tax cut" by the federal government at this time.

That statement runs true to a chronic political form in Washington, D.C.

Is there a taxpayer in the land whose memory is long enough to recall a day when arguments similar to Mr. Heller's were not used to discourage the hope of tax relief?

Deer Party Permit Isn't Conservation

Editor, Post-Crescent:

I wish someone would explain to me what conservation means. I always thought it was to conserve, protect, take care of, but it seems that this state calls it extermination as they are determined to exterminate all our deer with the party permit. I suppose their swivel chairs are getting weak so they need new ones to twist around in, so they must have that extra $5 for each 4 hunters. The money is what's doing it of course.

Now they want another tax for parks, etc. for the north. Let me tell you something, brother. People from the cities don't care about man-made parks. They have those at home. They want to see the natural beauty of our woods, lakes and rivers. All this game management is a big joke. All they need are a few game wardens to control violators. Of course violators only get a deer up north because he needs the meat to feed his family. Of course the law wants to hang him when he does, but they allow so-called sportsmen to kill doe and fawn to take home and shove in the garbage can in a week or so after he has showed it off. Some sportsmen!

But the exterminators get $5 for this crime and as for the timber holders complaining about the deer damage to their seedlings, I wonder how all the nice stand of virgin timber got started in the first place with no sportsman around to crop the herd? That's another joke. Once our deer are gone it will be like the buffalo of the West. They won't be able to bring them back. Our great-grandchildren will be able to hear stories of the deer that used to roam the north woods but none to see. They exterminated the buffalo for the hides so exterminate our deer for the extra $5 party permit, create some more soft jobs, raise more and more taxes, burden the people. Do any of our higher-ups know the meaning of the word doing good? Economizing.

212 Missing In Disaster in Persian Gulf

American employee of the Caltex Oil Co., L. V. (Roy) Dorsch of Brooklyn, N. Y., and his wife, Vala. They were reported on their way to California to retire after 35 years with Caltex, much of it in Bahrain.

The 5,030-ton Dara was en route from Basra to Bombay early Saturday when she collided with another ship in a storm. The Dara kept heading for open water to avoid being blown ashore in heavy winds, but at 4 43 a.m. an explosion in the engine room rocked the liner and fire broke out. The flames spread rapidly, and passengers and crew abandoned ship.

Braving explosions, firefighting parties from the British and U.S. Navies boarded the blazing liner and reported yesterday they had the fire under control.

The ship's owners, the British India Steamship Co., said the British navy had planned to start towing her to the Persian Gulf island of Bahrain today "but a for the extra men in my budget deterioration in the condition of the Dara overnight" caused the decision to try to beach her. She sank about 15 miles off the Oman coast of the Arabian Peninsula.

Scores jumped in panic into the stormy gulf waters infested with sharks.

One American survivor, Mrs. H. G. Lyker, wife of a missionary from Holland, Mich., said "the gangways and corridors were filled with people rushing about in a frenzy shouting 'fire, fire' when the order was given to abandon ship. Many had only their night clothes on."

She said her husband tried unsuccessfully with others to lower a lifeboat and then a rope was thrown over the side "but no one wanted to go down it because of the heat and smoke."

"My husband forced me to go down to give an example to the others. . . Other passengers were jumping and falling to the water all over in desperate confusion. Eventually I and my husband were dragged onto a lifeboat."

Income Tax Relief Seen By Nelson

welfare services for the Menominee Indian tribe if the federal termination act, which will put the Indians on their own resources this year, is not postponed.

Tax Staff Expansion
He told reporters also that he is pleased about the Republican legislative finance committee vote to expand the state personal income tax auditing staff beyond what he had proposed in his budget recommendations.

"They should have done this 10 years ago, and I would have asked for the extra men in my budget if I thought I could have got them," he said.

Nelson repeated that he favors broader arrest powers for state traffic officers involving crimes on the highway, an issue that will be returned to the legislature for another vote this week. In the last assembly vote, the traffic patrol arrest powers bill lost by two votes.

Sales Tax Alternative
The governor's plan to ask for higher income taxes to pay for personal property tax revenue replacement will make his own general revenue bill harder to pass, and will add some force, capital observers feel, to the movement toward a sales tax as an alternative.

The governor originally asked for a 1 per cent step by step increase in the personal income tax rates to finance the impending regular state budget deficit. He coupled that plan with a renewal demand for a withholding system of personal income tax collections.

"Marvelous and certainly miraculous," said an Air Force spokesman.

Mieras, who broke a leg when he hit the ground, fashioned a crutch from a tree limb and hobbled to an abandoned sheepherder's hut. He found a deck of cards and spent the time playing "one-handed pinochle—I was sure I was going to win on it."

Jump Separately
Obel and Mieras, who bailed out at 35,000 feet, were found at widely separated spots in the Mt. Taylor area northeast of here.

Obel made his way to the top of a small hill where he caught the attention of a cruising search plane. A helicopter spotted Mieras outside his hut.

Obel said the Sidewinder sounded like a thud when it hit the bomber.

"The aircraft went out of control," Obel said. "Just before I ejected I could feel the heat. I did not see any fire."

"I believe I lost consciousness very soon after I pulled the ejection seat handle. When I came to my parachute was open."

Used Raft as Shelter
Obel landed on cactus plants and sustained some minor but painful wounds. He inflated a life raft from his survival kit for shelter.

A board of inquiry is investigating the crash. A search party was to return to the crash scene today to check an air policeman's report that he had spotted part of the missile in a ravine.

In Albuquerque, the F100 fighter which fired the Sidewinder was being studied by Air Force technicians and the civilian firms which make the plane and the missile.

Bodies of the dead were recovered Sunday and taken to Kirtland Air Force Base in Albuquerque. They were Capt. Stephen Carter, 29, East Hartford, Conn.; Lt. Glenn V. Bair Jr., 24, Kemmerer, Wyo.; and Capt. Peter J. Gineris, 30, Albuquerque.

The three rescued shortly after the crash were Capt. Donald C. Blodgett, 39, Kalamazoo, Mich.; S-Sgt. Raymond H. Singleton, 27, Havre de Grace, Md.; and Capt. George D. Jackson, 27, Richmond, W. Va.

Great River Road High on Nelson's List

$2 Million Plan Told to Preserve Scenic Attractions

MADISON (AP)—A top priority item in the $2 million program Gov. Gaylord Nelson has proposed to preserve scenic attractions along more than 3,000 miles of highway in the next 10 years is the Great River Road.

The Great River Road stretches almost 250 miles from the Illinois border to northwestern Wisconsin along the Mississippi River.

Other priority projects listed by Nelson today include purchase of did not take place on Israeli soil and that Israel did not in fact exist as an independent state at the time.

Jerusalem's community center has been converted into a courtroom. It can accommodate 746 spectators. About two-thirds of these will be newspaper, radio and television reporters from 35 nations.

Closed-circuit television will bring the proceedings to a huge press room beneath the courtroom, to other parts of the building, along major tourist routes and in areas that represent major types of Wisconsin scenery, Nelson said.

Eichmann was transferred last week to a cell in the building of western Wisconsin, the central outside Haifa. He has been in custody since 1960.

scenic rights along Lake Michigan, Lake Superior and Green Bay, along the Chippewa, Wisconsin, Fox, Milwaukee and Wolf Rivers, in the lake and forest country of northern Wisconsin and through the Menominee Indian Reservation and the Kettle Moraine area.

$700 a Mile
Nelson said the state can acquire all scenic rights along these highways at a cost of less than $700 a mile. "This is only a fraction of what it would cost us to protect this scenic beauty by outright purchase of land," he said.

Nelson said within sight of the highway, the state would purchase all land use rights that might destroy natural scenery. This would include the rights to erect structures, excavate for gravel, remove trees and shrubbery, to subdivide and to use for dumps or storage areas.

"In each case," he said, "the state would pay only the difference between the market value of the land with and without the rights sought by the state."

Full Rights
The land would stay on the tax rolls and the owner would retain full rights to use the land as he wished except for the rights he has sold to the state.

Nelson said the program would also include establishment of historical markers, waysides, overlooks, landscaping and public access to adjacent waters.

The 10-year program includes the purchase of scenic easements along major tourist routes and in areas that represent major types of Wisconsin scenery, Nelson said.

These include Coulee and Prairie Savanna regions of southwestern Wisconsin, the central dairy regions.

Sudan Chief Praises Government of Congo

Feels Officials Will be Able to Sort Out Political Difficulties

BY JOHN A. KENNEDY
LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — High praise for the capacity of the Congo government's ministers to handle their difficult problems is voiced by Mekki Abbas of the Sudan, acting head of the U.N. Congo operation.

In an interview with this correspondent — the first he has granted since taking over from Rajeshwar Dayal of India — Abbas said:

"The ministers I have met here in Leopoldville have intelligence, understanding of their problems and compare very favorably with those I have seen in other parts of Africa.

"Given time to sort out their political difficulties, they should be able to make much progress."

Abbas has paid frequent visits to President Joseph Kasavubu, Premier Joseph Ileo and other leading members of the government.

The tall, attractive Sudanese diplomat, has for the past two years been secretary-general of the U.N. Economic Commission for Africa.

In the week I have been here diplomats, journalists and other experts have unanimously described the improvement in relations and attitude between the Congolese government and the United Nations since Abbas arrived four weeks ago. He is to hold office only until Dayal returns from consultations in New York.

Two Months Traveling
Two years ago I spent nearly two months traveling in five of the six Congo provinces.

In the succeeding 24 months Leopoldville has run down terribly, as the capital of a newly independent land.

Certain foods, medicine and many essential goods are in short supply.

But unlike conditions here last fall it seems perfectly safe. Mrs. Kennedy and I have driven out in the country — even 15 miles from the city — and feel perfectly safe both night and day.

State Supply Of Trees Good

First Time in 1½ Century Seedling Stocks So Abundant

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — For the first time in a decade and a half, there is an abundance of forest tree planting stock available from the conservation department's nurseries and there is some prospect of a surplus beyond planting demands.

The state now has on hand about 33,000,000 forest tree species seedlings and transplants, an amount that is greater than annual total production in past years.

Output has been increased steadily, in response to heavily increased demands from public and private reforestation enthusiasts. Currently the state's production budget is figured at about 58,000,000 seedlings yearly.

Sold at Cost

The trees are distributed at cost, to local government agencies, private land owners including farmers, commercial forest managers and many others. Their use for ornamental plantings is prohibited.

Years of such reforestation promotion by the state and its increasing acceptance by land-owners has made Wisconsin one of the leaders in the country in the restoration of denuded forest lands.

52,000 Acres

Last year Wisconsin planted about 52,000 acres to forest trees, more than any other state in the Great Lakes region, and more than any other in the country except Oregon, Washington and a few of the southern states.

Private forest planting here amounted to about 44,000 acres.

Over the years, the Wisconsin record also is superior. Since private reforestation in the state became a significant factor in forest programs, this state has restored about 400,000 acres of private lands to timber production through planting.
